

FRANCE, ITALY TO CUT ARMIES

TRIBUTE IS PAID ITALY'S HERO AS CHICAGO'S OWN

Day Long Ovation Is Accorded Diaz.

With all the fire and enthusiasm of their race, Chicago's Italians yesterday turned out in thousands to welcome Italy's greatest soldier, General Armando Diaz.

From the time he arrived at the Union station in the morning until he finished the day with an address before 2,000 cheering Italians in the gold room at the Congress hotel shortly before midnight, he was the central figure of tremendous ovations.

While his greatest ovation came in the afternoon parade, when thousands of enthusiastic Italians turned what was begun as a parade into a vociferous reception, it was only slightly greater than the ovation he received in the evening when he spoke before his cheering countrymen at the Congress hotel.

Friendship Born of War.

Taking as his theme the spirit of Italy, he told how the Italians had done their share in winning the world war, sharing in turn both the Americans and his own forces.

"Italy and America united in the great war in a common cause and fought together for the preservation of humanity and civilization," he said. "Italy and America came out of the war with clean hands. Their entrance into the conflict for the same ideals not only gave them victory, but it furnished the bond for the tremendous friendship which has grown up between the two nations in the last two years."

The Spirit of Italy.

"When I took the supreme command I issued a message saying, 'I depend on the sacrifice of all.' My faith was amply rewarded. A few months later I read the inscription printed on two walls along the Parva. One wall, 'All heroes or all dead,' and the other, 'Better to live one day as a lion than 100 years as a sheep.'"

The General was high in his praise of Chicago.

"I came to Chicago," he said, "expecting to find an industrial city of great quiet, but instead I found a city of great vivacity and life, which has overwhelmed me with affection. I thought I would see a parade of only a few people when I mounted the stand this afternoon, but instead the people lined up like a great river. Niagara Falls itself could not beat it."

20,000 in Parade.

It is estimated that in the parade in honor of the general were 20,000 cheering, waving, smiling persons. In front had marched a scattering of troops, the marines, a few veterans of the great war, the firemen, and the police, but they were not the parade. That was Italian.

Gathered from every section of the city, they had been fitted out with flags, formed into the parade by societies, and ordered to march. Like soldiers, they swung down Michigan avenue until the first group reached the stand. But at the sight of the general they could not restrain their enthusiasm.

Chill Wind Fires Ardor.

There was a chill in the cold north wind, but it only fanned the fire of enthusiasm that filled the marchers in the parade, and the thousands of others who jammed Michigan avenue from the Arc Institute to the Illinois Central station. It was estimated that nearly 20,000 persons saw the parade.

As for the general, he expressed himself as overwhelmed by the reception accorded him.

"It is wonderful, it is extraordinary," he said, as he watched the cheering marchers go past. "I never saw anything like it before."

The general was revealed as a short, rather spare, kindly faced man.

Wearing the gray green uniform overcoat and a silver broadsword cap, he stood sharply at attention as the soldiers of the infantry, artillery, and cavalry of the United States army passed. Behind him the Italian societies, bearded and his face wreathed with smiles, appeared; his visage changed. There was a smile beneath his salute.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

ARMS CONFERENCE.

Premier Briand, in address today, will announce that France is ready to cut army in half.

Following Premier Briand's statement today of "special position" of France, French delegation expects response from President Harding, designed to calm French fears, declaring any aggression against peace of Europe would be regarded as attempt against United States.

Abrogation of Anglo-Japanese alliance believed essential to success of conference, even though Great Britain would never side with Japan against United States.

CHAPTER XI.

Henry Livingston Bacon, or, to use the name newly assumed, Harry L. Rasher, spent his first morning in Adamant walking around.

He saw a depressing picture. Sordid streets and sordid people. A murky pall of smoke hung over the huddled shacks and the grimy buildings of the steel plant. Unfamiliar as he was with conditions in industrial towns, he sensed the absence of enlightened management, of conscientious efforts to brighten the living conditions of the workers.

The great mills and the sullen tolling thousands seemed to exist only for the purpose of maintaining the dividends necessary to sustain the luxurious scale of living of the Lannard family in New York.

There was no sense of brotherhood between the mills and the workers.

Industrial strife was inevitable.

Rasher stopped to talk to a gatekeeper, who was only too ready to express himself.

"It's a great property," said he, "but they're running it in the ground. Old Lannard don't give his attention to it. A lot of grafting managers run it for him, and there's no love lost between the workers and the plant. Nothing but strikes here for months, and if something ain't done to modernize the mills they'll bust. Between the bulldozed manager and the bunch of labor agitators the mills are on the toboggan."

Rasher resolved to discover the grievances of the workers, and to do this he must become one of them.

A short time later he was in the ante-room of the manager of the plant. A young woman at a desk asked his business.

"I'm looking for a job."

"In what department?" Rasher was suddenly conscious that she had kindly eyes—the first cheerful impression he had experienced since arriving in Adamant.

"Any department," he replied. "I'm not a skilled worker, but I must have work."

Her eyes rested for an instant on his service button, and after a moment of hesitation she said she would ask if the manager, who never saw job hunters, would make an exception in his case.

"That's a real girl," reflected Rasher as he waited.

"How she ever preserved her cheerfulness in these surroundings is beyond me."

"I'm sorry," she announced, reappearing, "but he will not see you."

"Don't they need men here?" he asked. "I understood they did."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"Did you tell him I'm an ex-service man who is willing to work and strong enough to work?"

She smiled faintly.

"Yes, I did. But he said he wouldn't see you. I'm sorry. Perhaps if you try one of the foremen—"

A buzzer sounded, but before she could answer it the manager, a hard faced man with sharp, steely eyes, came out. He shot an ill natured glance at Rasher, and then turned arrogantly to his secretary.

"I think I told you, Miss Brook, that I am not to be disturbed by job hunters. You ought to know that by this time."

The girl, humiliated, said nothing.

Ignoring the manager, Rasher spoke to the girl: "I want to thank you for your efforts in my behalf. And I'm sorry if I have caused you any trouble."

He turned to go. The manager flushed angrily.

"Hold on, young man. That kind of stuff won't get you anywhere if you want to work in this plant."

Rasher controlled his temper.

"I'm a stranger here. I don't know your rules and I had no intention of disregarding them. I wanted a job and naturally came to the man who could give it to me if he wanted to."

The manager paused, his anger suddenly arrested by an idea.

"Come into my office," he said shortly. Shutting the door, he continued:

"You look like an intelligent man, and if you are intelligent I can use you. Do you know anybody here?"

"Not a soul."

"Are you a union man?"

"No. I'm not a skilled worker and don't think I could get into a union."

"Are you willing to make some money?"

"Certainly. That's what I'm after. I want a job."

"I think I can use you if you are willing to follow my instructions."

"What do you want me to do?"

The manager then outlined the work he wished done, while Rasher, listening intently, listened without betraying the slightest emotion.

Tribune's $11,650 Washington Essay Contest Is On; Write!

The contest is on!

Announcement in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE that cash prizes totaling $11,650 would be paid for the best essays on George Washington has spurred to action teachers and school children of all Chicago and of the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

They united in hailing the contest as the greatest juvenile competition of a patriotic and literary nature that has ever been held.

Teachers on reading the announcement at once began to take a mental census of their best pupils and to plan essay writing campaigns among their classes. The teachers whose students win prizes for the best essays will divide a total of $11,650 in prizes among themselves.

Students on Toss for Contest.

Boys and girls attending grammar and high schools of the territory included in the contest showed even greater activity than the teachers, as they realized the opportunity for cash and fame that has been opened to them by THE TRIBUNE's offer. Writers of the best essays on George Washington will divide cash prizes aggregating $3,650.

The inspiration of the contest was felt at once by the ambitious boys and girls. Many of them could not wait a single moment before beginning work. Egger young hands raided book collections in private homes for works dealing with the life of the "Father of His Country" and eager young minds began to absorb essay material. Beginning today every public library will be invaded by budding essayists.

Purpose to Develop Americanism.

Generous prizes have been offered to accomplish the purposes of the competition—to develop true Americanism by stimulating study of the life and words of the immortal President and to inspire original thought and literary work among school children.

The writer of the best essay submitted in the contest will receive $3,650. As each essay is limited to 500 words or less, this means that the winner of the grand prize will be rewarded at the rate of $10 or more a word—a rate that sets a high record in compensation for literary effort.

Sixty other prizes, ranging from $500 to $25, will be paid for the best essays submitted from the six territorial divisions involved, and the winner of the grand prize may add to his earnings by obtaining one of the essays received will be printed in THE TRIBUNE every day.

Here Are Other Prizes.

Here's a birdseye view of the seventy-eight prizes that will be awarded to both teachers and students.

For Students—Ten prizes totaling $1,625, and ranging from $500 to $25, for the writers of the best essays from each of the territorial divisions: City of Chicago; states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

For Teachers—Three prizes totaling $500 for each of the territorial divisions. The room teacher whose pupils win the first prize for the territorial division will receive $350 and there are second and third prizes of $150 and $100.

If you haven't already begun your essay or started gathering material for it—get busy!

[Details of the prizes and rules governing the contest are to be found on page 4.]

MORRIS & CO. TO ANNOUNCE WAGE DECREASE TODAY

Morris & Co., packers, today will announce a wage cut of approximately 10 per cent, affecting all workers in their plants Nov. 28.

The move follows a recent agreement of other packing companies with their workers through the recently organized employees' representation plan. Morris & Co. was not in this agreement.

Workers receiving more than 50 cents an hour are cut 3 cents; from 45 to 50 cents, 5 cent cut; less than 45 cents, 7 1/2 cent cut; and piecework employees get an 8 per cent cut. Working conditions remain the same.

SUSPECT PLOT IN FIRE ON VESSEL; OFFICIAL TARGET

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—When the fruit liner Tanamo arrived here late yesterday with E. Mont Rely, governor of Porto Rico, and nineteen other passengers from San Juan, it was learned that the vessel had been on fire in No. 2 hold since Thursday evening.

No radio messages were sent out because the captain, Herbert Hudson, felt there was no danger.

Previous to the ship leaving San Juan Gov. Rely received threatening letters from Porto Ricans in New York and on the island, members of the secessionist party. The officers are confident the fire had been started by Porto Ricans. There was a hostile crowd of Porto Ricans outside the pier waiting to hoot the governor. A police patrol was on hand.

Mother Drives Car 12 Hours in Storm to Save Son's Eye

Canoh City, Colo., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—A mother's love and pluck in sticking at an automobile steering wheel for twelve hours over mountain roads through a snowstorm saved 8-year old Leo Flak's eyesight. The boy's eye was injured at play yesterday, and his mother, Mrs. W. A. Flak, drove all night from Elkton, in the Cripple Creek district, to get the lad to a hospital here.

Bomb in Movie Theater Places 400 in Danger

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—A fuse attached to what police say was a high explosive bomb to burn property saved the lives of several hundred persons at the Grand theater, a moving picture house, here tonight. The bomb was found beneath a seat in the middle of the theater shortly after 600 patrons had left the place.

Lighting Stuns Engineer; Fireman Rescues Train

Duquoin, Ill., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—During a severe storm lightning struck an Illinois coal passenger engine near Pincinnville and made Engineer McLaughlin unconscious. The engineer, stunned, fell from his seat and in doing so threw the throttle wide open. The fireman took his place and brought the train under control.

HUGHES TO WIN ON NAVY; ORIENT ISSUE DELICATE

Tokio's Grabs Make Entente Difficult.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Great Britain has endorsed without reservation the "5-5-3" ratio proposed in the American naval limitation plan, it was learned tonight on highest authority. While accepting the plan as a whole only in principle, because of their desire to put forward proposed modification of the submarine and replacement features, the British delegation is said to have approved the suggested relative capital ship strength for Great Britain, the United States and Japan without equivocation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—With a prospect of success far beyond the anticipation of the veteran statesmen in attendance, the international conference on limitation of armaments begins its second week by getting down to brass tacks on the multitude of definite questions involved in its program.

The last of the preliminaries will be staged tomorrow, when there will be an open session of the conference for the express purpose of permitting M. Briand, the French premier, to inaugurate the discussion of reduction and limitation of land armaments by stating the position of France on this question. Then the premier will go home, leaving the army curtailment problem as a side issue of the conference, which, in turn, is expected to leave it to the consideration of some future council of the powers.

Secrecy to Veil Cogitations.

Having closed this plenary session, which is likely to be the last for some time, the conference will proceed with the consideration of the naval holiday plan and the far eastern problem in secret committee meetings.

Despite the efforts of Japan to modify the Hughes plan to obtain a greater proportional strength in capital ships and in airplane carriers, and of Great Britain to obtain a different system of replacement, there is every reason to expect a comparatively early agreement on reduction and limitation of naval armaments. That will register success in the main objective of the conference, and will the attainment of that end President Harding and Secretary Hughes do not intend to permit considerations pertaining to other questions to interfere.

Britain Backs United States.

The authorized spokesmen for the Japanese delegation, however, have stated that Japan is ready to join with the United States and Great Britain in reaching an agreement on armaments without reference to other matters. Mr. Hughes is willing to compromise on features of the American plan except to capital ships, and the British take the same stand.

Consequently, when a fair compromise has been evolved the Japanese, it is believed, will find it the part of wisdom to accept without further ado. Prospects of success in settling the far eastern and Pacific question are decidedly less roseate. Compared with this one, the armament question is simplicity itself. When it comes to the conflicting national interests in the orient the conference will deem itself lucky to produce half a loaf, leaving the dough for the other half to some future international conference, possibly at Tokio.

Want New Deal for China.

The aim of the Harding administration is to bring about a new deal in the relations of China with other nations, which would give China a free chance to get on her feet. There is no idea of committing the United States to the use of force in protecting and stabilizing China, but the main object is to induce the powers to subscribe to a self-denying ordinance going far beyond the open door and other previous agreements relating to China.

Japan does not intend to give up the foothold she has obtained in Manchuria, though she is willing to compromise with the powers on questions relating to China proper—that is, the eighteen provinces within the great wall, exclusive of Manchuria, Mongolia, and Tibet. The British, who have control of outer Tibet, are supporting the Japanese position as to Manchuria.

Theater Man's Son and Bride Are Locked Up

Harry O. Jones, son of Louis J. Jones, member of the firm of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, moving picture theater owners, was locked up in the psychopathic hospital yesterday.

He was placed there on commitment papers obtained by his father, it is said; and that is why he did not go to the aid of his bride of less than two months, Eunice L. Jones, who was locked up Saturday night in the South Clark street police station annex on charges of perjury. The charge was sworn to by Walter H. Moore, 3231 Fulton street, who is manager of the Orpheum theater, owned by Jones, Linick & Schaefer.

Bride Charges Plot.

The bride charges her arrest and the commitment of her husband are part of a plot to force her to leave young Jones. He, according to persons who have talked with him in the last thirty-six hours, has declared:

"They may force us apart now, but if they do I will marry her as soon as I can. I have been told all sorts of stories about her, but I in re-stigated every one of them myself and found them untrue. They cannot part us."

The bride was released on bonds signed by J. J. Gibbons, 4305 North Lincoln avenue.

"My husband's parents think I want their money," she said as she left the police station. "I don't want it. We went to St. Louis to get away from it, so we could each go to work and help each other and have the peace and happiness we sought. I love my husband and I know he loves me."

Told of Suit.

Mrs. Jones was told that it had been learned that a suit for annulment of their marriage had been filed last week. The bill attacks the validity of the marriage, charges that Mrs. Jones swore falsely to her age and represented herself as being unmarried. It sets forth, also, that her former husband, John Molander, divorced her in 1918.

"My age is 24, as I gave it," she said when told the particulars of the bill.

"I engaged Attorney George Popham to get a divorce for me and it was granted in Judge Brothers' court four years ago. I was given the right to my maiden name."

"I met my husband through his family. I was on an elevated train they were riding on. The mother looked at me and said, 'There's a very sweet girl.' Then Harry spoke to me and followed me to my home, 928 Argyle. They lived nearby, at the Somerset hotel. He got me to give him my telephone number. Several times I went out with him and his mother. His mother and father were nice to me until we were married."

Found Stories False.

"Mrs. Jones and her husband were in to see me two weeks ago," said Attorney Popham last night. "I recalled the divorce case. Her husband did not get the decree. Young Jones told me that he had been told a lot of stories about his wife, and that he had investigated them and found them false. He wanted to start a libel suit, but I advised him against it."

"He seemed perfectly sane to me. Probably he was foolish for getting married without telling his parents about it, but he's sane, all right."

Others who have talked with the young husband recently expressed their belief that he was perfectly sane.

"The only trouble with him is that he has never been able to get along with his father," it was said.

SHIPPERS' ADVICE.

announce publicly its readiness to abandon all preferential rights in China customs duties, and its abandonment of extra-territorial privileges, if the other nations follow suit.

Tariff Key to Far East Puzzle.

American economic experts regard the customs problem as the key to the solution of the far eastern question which is embodied in China. Cancellation of agreements limiting customs to 5 per cent and increase of these duties to 20 or 25 per cent would, it is stated, give the Chinese government necessary funds to establish control throughout the empire and maintain order.

Simultaneously, they declare, elimination of the "likin," or Chinese internal customs, is necessary. The "likin" permits the various provinces and cities to levy their own individual duties and taxes on all articles and increases actual import costs paid in introducing foreign commodities to a figure equal to quintupling the customs duties at the ports.

Under the present system the provinces and cities of China collect duties for the central government at Peking. This always presents the opportunity of a province using the funds to aid in a rebellion or secession.

Collection of customs duties at tide-water by the central government would place Peking in control of the situation financially, as Peking would then remit funds to the various provinces and cities according to the government budget.

New Monetary Plan Vital.

Reorganization of the monetary system is regarded as the second most pressing need in China, but the American authorities are wary of undertaking this work through fear of complications which might result in the United States being regarded as guaranteeing China's fiscal affairs and, therefore, be forced into administering her treasury and banking business.

as yesterday's article showed, two ideas—Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted because they were foreigners, because they were radicals. And there is little doubt that the evidence against the two men is not overly convincing. They did it with the clatter of their typewriters. They published an Italian weekly devoted exclusively to the case and sent it to every radical paper in Italy, Spain, and South America. From Italy the anarchist papers sent it to France.

The Anarchist Alliance sent forth an appeal. The anarchist papers took up the cry. It became a world proletarian movement.

As far back as Sept. 30—when America knew practically nothing of the case—Le Libertaire said:

"Here in France the cry of alarm set up by the Anarchist Alliance and Le Libertaire has been heard and echoes of the proletarian all over the world are coming back to us. In all countries indignation is growing and action is taking place to save from death, two brothers, two comrades."

The movement in France was not, as its source in Boston, essentially hazardous, unorganized.

"Enough of words," Le Libertaire says. "We must have action. Action which alone can save Sacco and Vanzetti. When a government cherishes the nefarious plan of assassinating two revolutionaries it is a piece, of our flesh, a piece of ourselves, revolutionaries of the whole world they wish to assassinate."

Paris Reds Fired to Frenzy.

Here, in this appeal, is the torch that set Paris afire.

"Will it at last be understood that it is high time to shake off this monstrous apathy. Shall we ever understand that if we really want to save Sacco and Vanzetti we must without delay make most energetic decisions and prepare to carry the popular protest under the very windows of the American embassies?"

Then, in black type:

"We are ready to descend into the street. Who will come with us?"

In the same issue was a telegraphic resolution adopted at a meeting of communists.

"Revolutionary workers of Paris unite this evening. Large meetings protest against condemnation Sacco and Vanzetti. Demand vociferously their freedom. Warn American government that they have decided to obtain it by the most extreme methods if necessary."

Others Drawn Into Protest.

Not only did the organized radicals take up the cry. The Federation of Cripples, Widows, and Orphans of the War sent a telegram to the American embassy "as a prelude to its action."

The federation, working women and peasant women, cripples, widows, orphans of the war send to the responsible American powers an expression of the horror aroused in them by the sly and hypocritical methods they have used to crush two valiant revolutionaries."

Anatole France, Romain Rolland, Henri Barbusse, writers of international reputation, heard the cry from the little Boston office and appealed to the liberal elements in America to save Sacco and Vanzetti.

Meanwhile Nov. 1 approached—the day of sentence. Upon the first page of the Libertaire was a broadsheet announcement.

"We inform our comrades that the Union of Syndicalists of the Seine will organize one day next week with the help of all the forward looking groups," it said. "We do not think we are indiscreet in informing our readers that a demonstration in front of the American embassy has been decided upon by these same groups."

The wave of violence followed.

Lyons, the Columbia student, in charge of American and English publicity, believes the Third International is responsible. The others do not comment. Mrs. Glendower Evans

ENTIRE FAMILY IN U. S., BOY MAY BE BARRED OUT

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—On Ellis Island awaiting deportation to a land that no longer holds relatives or friends is a boy, whose case presents one of the strangest problems the immigration authorities have ever been called to decide.

Johnny Schumacher is a boy destined never to grow up. At 15 he can neither read nor write. His mind is that of a baby. Under the immigration laws he is an "undesirable alien." Carl Schumacher, Johnny's father, came to America from Scotland several years ago. Two older children accompanied him. In February, 1920, Johnny arrived with his mother and a younger sister. To Johnny the gates of the new world were barred. His mother and sister were permitted to go to his father's home in White Plains, but Johnny stayed at Ellis Island. Recently the immigration bureau undertook a nation wide round up of "undesirables" and Johnny Schumacher was caught in the net.

It's Getting Chilly

The weatherwise say we're in for an early, long and frigid winter.

Last Friday seemed to bear them out. But there's one consolation—Capper overcoats!

They're great comfort from the cold, and it's by no means a hardship to be seen in them. We've never had such a layout of them. Burberrys. Camel's hair—the finest we have ever seen. Fleecy things from England; soft, light, in smashing patterns.

An almost unlimited selection of the greatest domestic overcoats anybody could get hold of. From $55 to $125. (Our $55 overcoats are to overcoats what our Capper Forty Fives are to suits—amazing garments at the price—Capperish, well made, of good stuff.)

So never mind the weather.

Washington, D. C. What is this way? That we are worth worrying about to the United States? These questions in these conference never may be found for the conference parts.

The gross value of China for 1920 was $1,120,000,000. Since the revolution trade has nearly doubled in the developed market.

America's share of this trade in 1920 was $84 per cent, and Japan 37.7 per cent. The point is that European markets for a larger share order to keep her in the greatest potent world.

IS CHINA'S TRADE WORTH FUSSING OVER? READ THIS

Over a Billion in 1920 in Spite of Obstacles.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—What is this Chinese trade, anyway, that we are all fussing about? Is it worth worrying over? Is it necessary to the United States?

These questions are heard frequently in these conference days and the answer may be found in figures prepared for the conference by government experts.

The gross value of the foreign trade of China for 1920 was $1,034,476,110. For 1911 the figures read $653,239,867. Since the revolution, therefore, the trade has nearly doubled in spite of fighting in the interior and a poorly developed market.

America a Poor Third.
Of this trade in 1920 America took 8.4 per cent, Great Britain 37.6 per cent, and Japan 37.7 per cent.

The point is made that with bad European markets America must try for a larger share of this trade in order to keep her own workmen busy. It is recognized by business men as the greatest potential market in the world.

In 1913 America had .8 per cent of the trade, Great Britain 41.2, and Japan 23.3 per cent.

Great Britain has fallen off 4 per cent, while America has increased 15 per cent and Japan has increased 15. Entrances and clearances by flags show America 1 per cent, British 40.8 per cent, and Japan 25.1 per cent.

This value in American dollars is taken from the present value of the Chinese tael, worth now about 77 cents.

Value of Business in Taels.
Division of the trade, given in taels, is as follows for 1920:

America.
Imports..... 73,848,178
Exports..... 41,995,953
Coast trade, in..... 14,763,003
Coast trade, out..... 10,090,995

Great Britain.
Imports..... 317,925,000
Exports..... 200,634,687
Coast trade, in..... 319,848,513
Coast trade, out..... 334,517,021

Japan.
Imports..... 287,153,044
Exports..... 219,431,953
Coast trade, in..... 99,398,849
Coast trade, out..... 101,237,686

The value of direct imports from each country, in taels, for 1920:

America.
Imports..... 143,198,982
Great Britain..... 131,719,852
Japan..... 229,135,896

Twenty million dollars' worth of cotton machinery is said to have been sold in China by Americans during the last year, but the figures cannot be obtained.

What America Sent In.
Chief items of import from this country in 1920, in taels:

Raw silk...... 3,184,537
Raw cotton...... 29,018,029
Opium, opiate...... 28,149,046
Opium thread...... 84,507,676
Opium pieces...... 170,864,278
Paper ware...... 14,404,650
Iron and steel rods, bars, etc...... 19,854,288
Ties and other items...... 26,703,803
Machinery, agriculture...... 15,443,843
Machinery, weaving, print, etc...... 7,090,094
Machinery, electrical...... 8,404,316
Vehicles, for railways...... 4,715,974
Motor cars...... 3,780,785
Arms and munitions...... 704,477
Silver...... 100,602,785

The railway zone in Manchuria and the opening of Dairen port made Japan the largest seller in that country, as she had always been the largest buyer. Japan's share of this trade is 46 per cent; China's, 30 per cent, and America's, 21 per cent.

Manchuria Trade Spurts.
The imports jumped from 10,850,845 taels in 1907 to 31,965,340; the exports from 3,231,145 taels in 1907 to 63,187,418 in 1917. Twenty thousand Japanese have moved into the railway zone.

The percentage of Manchurian trade to Chinese trade, as a whole, is 16.8. The Manchuria trade in 1908 was 95,312,727 taels. In 1918 it was 267,209,401 taels. This is where Japan is said to be closing the door.

for them. From then on it was more like a reception than a parade.

Must Have Peace in Hearts.

Immediately after the parade, which required one and one-half hours to pass a point, he went to the Congress hotel. There he consented to an interview, talking particularly of the disarmament conference, which he declared the thing of greatest portent to the world today.

"The peace conference is going to do great things," he said. "From the beginning it has taken greater importance than any of us at first believed. The scrapping of battleships is a great thing. We have already stopped all naval construction in Italy. We have cut our army down to one-third prewar strength, and the Italian nation is spending barely one-third as much for military appropriations as we did before the war."

"Limitation of armaments is a great thing, but there are more important things. Before we can ever have a lasting peace there must first be peace in the heart and soul and spirit of the people. We in Italy are beginning to realize that. That's why we are going ahead as we are. And right here is another thing that you can write down and remember."

Trying to Forget War.

"Italy came to this conference with clean hands. We are trying to forget the war. I believe we are recovering faster from its effects than any nation in the world."

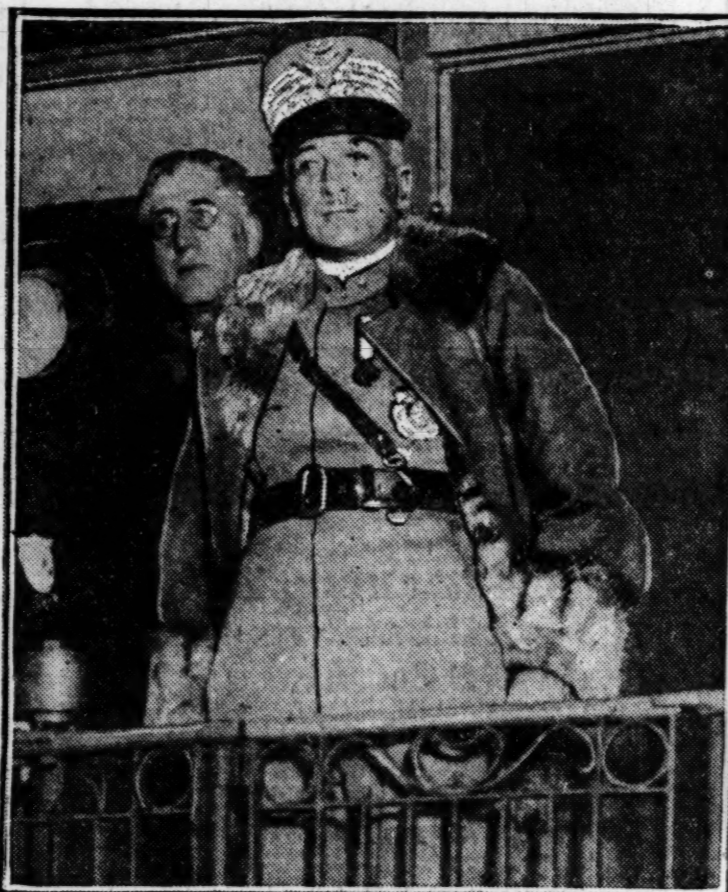

Gen. Diaz was greeted at the Union station at 9 o'clock by the acting Italian consul, G. Dall'Agno, a committee of Italians representing the Foreign society, Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., Col. W. V. Caldwell, and Capt. D. W. Wurtzbaugh, U. S. N.

Leaving the station he encountered the noisiest crowd of the day. Some 5,000 Italians, waiting in the cold from early morning, broke through the police and military lines at the first sight of the general. Scores of them crowded around him, yelling and kissing his hands. It was several minutes before the party was able to proceed to the Holy Family Jesuit church, Roosevelt road and May streets, where he attended high mass.

Loyola Confers Degree.

Following mass, Gen. Diaz was conferred to Loyola university, where the degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him by the Rev. Father Agnew, president of the university.

After luncheon at the Chicago Athletic club the general was taken to the reviewing stand in Grant park.

SEES PROGRESS OF YEARS IN MINUTES AT DISARM PARLEY

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

"The world made more progress in thirty minutes last Saturday when Secretary of State Hughes spoke than it had made previously in thirty years."

This praise of the disarmament proposals of Secretary Hughes at the arms conference was given yesterday morning by the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, Brooklyn, who spoke in Central church, Orchestra hall, on "Disarmament and the Kingdom of God."

"While this progressive step is a marked advance over the past," he said, "it is small compared with the progress we will yet make in the world when all of the nations come to realize the interdependence every nation has on the others."

"Lincoln was present in Washington last Saturday morning. He rejoiced to know the dead had not died in vain."

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE BAR TO PARLEY SUCCESS

Abrogation of Treaty Means U. S. Friendship.

BY HENRY WALES.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is essential to the success of the disarmament conference.

This is the belief in American diplomatic and naval circles as negotiations enter on the second week, with counter proposals and reservations from powers represented here threatening to distort the 5-5-3 plan.

Great Britain could enforce Japan's acceptance of Mr. Hughes' proposals. It is pointed out, because English shipyards and English armor plate factories provided the Japanese with a large part of their navy and mercantile marine and with the necessary equipment.

Before the war Japan placed orders in England and Germany and during the war obtained the bulk of her supplies from the United States.

Britain Japan's Sole Market.

With Germany forbidden to manufacture and sell naval armaments, and with American firms declining to provide Japan with these necessities, Britain is the sole market to which Tokyo can look for the wherewithal to maintain her fleet.

Nether France nor Italy could furnish Japan the materials sought, and in the opinion of experts it would require at least ten years for the development of the ore deposits in Asia to which Japan has access to make Japan independent of the rest of the world.

As an ally, Britain could scarcely be expected to decline to sell to Japan the armor plates she needs for her dreadnaughts, nor to lay down in English and Irish yards the lighter craft that Tokyo might order.

Alliance Would Be Valueless.

Such refusal on the part of the British government would involve at least a revision of the alliance with Japan, so effectively weakening the tie that it would become valueless to both parties.

"America is extending her hand to England at this conference and it is for British statesmen to realize it, and to grasp it," said an American diplomat today, in explaining the deep-rooted belief held here.

"A lack of confidence, caused by our early wars with England and fostered by misunderstandings and blunders, kept the United States and Britain apart until 1917. During the year or more when we were common allies in the war this mistrust and antipathy on both sides seemed abated."

"MEETING OF MINDS" BETWEEN SESSIONS HELPS CONFERENCE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Informal "conversations" between leading members of the various delegations attending the disarmament conference are proving the most effective way of getting results, and to this method of assuring a "meeting of minds" is being ascribed credit for much of the success which has been gained by the conference thus far.

Members of the American group are particularly industrious in this regard, most of their time between meetings of the conference or of its committees being devoted to conversations with members of foreign delegations.

Not infrequently these meetings last far into the night and deal with the most delicate and important features of the conference.

"Since the armistice, however, as a result of the peace negotiations at Paris and since, and fanned by the Irish problem, the old feeling has revived until we have reached the pre-war status of misconceptions and mistrust."

JAPAN, TO BEAT U.S. PLAN, RUSHES NAVY MONSTERS

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

TOKIO, Nov. 20.—Presumably acting in a tip from the Japanese delegation at Washington, the navy is urging the shipyards to speed up the launching of the dreadnaught Tosa, requesting that the date for this be Dec. 3, instead of Dec. 18. This is believed to indicate Japan expects to save the Kaga, Tama, and Mutsu, if it can get the Tosa afloat in time, scrapping the older Settsu.

Interest now shifts to the far east problems with indications that Japan will concede all but Manchuria and Saghalien. A meeting of the diplomatic advisory council has been called for Tuesday to frame definite instruction to submit to the delegates of which the Asahi in an inspired article says that China and Siberia should be settled on the principle of territorial integrity, open door, and equal opportunity, but Japan fears her views will differ from that of other powers regarding her special interests in Manchuria and Mongolia, and evacuation of Saghalien.

Japan, the Asahi says, holds the powers acquiesced that Manchuria is not recognized as Chinese territory by their tacit recognition of the Russian invasion thereof and also by the consortium where Japan's relations in Manchuria are regarded as special because four railways there are exempted from the consortium. It also holds the powers have recognized the necessity of Japan's procuring food and raw materials from Manchuria.

Therefore Japan probably will not demand annexation or a protectorate, but will try to maintain its treaty rights, although abandoning one or two items covered by the twenty-one demands. Regarding Saghalien Japan expects to hold it until a formal Russian government is established as recompense for the loss of 700 Japanese lives in the Nikolaevsk massacre.

WOMEN A UNIT IN URGING AN END TO SUBMARINE WAR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—There is no doubt where the women of the country stand on the question of the elimination of the submarine. An international agreement would have their approval.

"I should hail it with joy," Mrs. Irvine L. Lenroot, wife of the Wisconsin senator said today. "It would have an even better effect than the scrapping of battleships."

Mrs. Lenroot is the president of the Congressional club, the membership of which includes the wives and daughters of members of the senate and house. Her opinion that America should help to outlaw the submarine is shared by Mrs. Harry S. New, wife of Senator New of Indiana.

Mrs. Henry W. Keyes, wife of Senator Keyes of New Hampshire, believes that the submarine should be limited strictly to defensive uses.

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts, one of the four women members of the advisory committee to the American delegation, said the matter was one which must be considered from many angles. "But, of course," she said, "I should be glad to see all such horrible weapons done away with."

FIND HUSBAND OF SUICIDE WITH ANOTHER WOMAN

A telephone number on a note left by a woman supposed to have been Mrs. Kraus, who committed suicide in a rooming house at 20 West Huron street, led last night to the establishment of her identity as Mrs. Sadie Kusick, 29 years old, 903 Edgecomb place.

When the police went to notify Mr. Kusick that his wife had committed suicide they found him in the company of another woman in his home at the Edgecomb place address. Kusick attempted to jump from a second story window.

Kusick said that nine months ago their only child, Bernice, 11 years old, had died. Grief for the loss had shaken the mother's mind, he said. Several years before, when another daughter had died, his wife attempted suicide and he had prevented her, he said.

Kusick said he thought when his wife left Saturday she was going to work as a cashier at the Boston store. When she did not return he decided she had gone to her mother's.

CHINA HOPES TO FORCE SHOWING OF JAPAN'S HAND

Diplomats See a Conflict Over Situation.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Chinese delegates will attempt tomorrow to pin the Japanese down to something concrete in applying high customs duties to the actual problem of the tariff in China today.

The committee on Pacific and far eastern questions will meet for the first time of the Japanese attitude. Will the Japanese reconsider the twenty-one demands return Shantung, and give China back control of her tariff? If some of these things are done then China has failed as she failed at Paris.

Secretary Hughes is confident that a settlement of the far eastern questions will be reached. Prime Tokugawa, head of the Japanese delegation, warns against going too fast.

"We come here not to be dictated but to enter into a discussion," he said to a friend in private conversation.

Division in Japanese Ranks.
The illness of Baron Shidehara, the Japanese ambassador, continues and has led to reports of a break between him and Admiral Baron Kato over policy in the Chinese question. When this question was first approached it was announced at the Japanese headquarters that Baron Shidehara, a conservative and liberal sympathizer, would be Japan's representative. When the Chinese proposals were made the baron became ill and it was said that the rest of Japan would have to wait for his recovery.

But the reply was given yesterday, with the ambassador still in bed, by Kato, who represents the general staff, the military rule of Japan. It was, in short, a notice that Japan would take up the twenty-one demands, Shantung and the tariff only under protest, and that they were considered "minor matters" that would only protract the discussions. Japan is all set for a big economic drive in Manchuria and does not intend to give up her rights and privileges there or withdraw her troops.

Didn't Claim "Additions."
It was explained today at Japanese headquarters that when Baron Kato said Japan did not claim any special rights and privileges in trade with China he did not refer to existing treaties and concessions but to future preferences. She will not give up what she has gained and will not even admit that Manchuria is in China.

The Chinese are counting upon American and possibly French support at the outset, with Great Britain coming in on this side if the pressure gets strong enough.

In this event Japan will make a grand gesture of some kind and give up Shantung or make some other "voluntary" concession to the peculiar viewpoint of the western nations. It will be done gracefully and with the idea of helping Japan "save her face" in the Orient.

Great Britain is prepared to give up her special sphere of influence in the Yangtze valley if Japan will give up similar privileges in Manchuria and Mongolia. It is the British idea that the time has come for abandonment of the special spheres of influence and the substitution of international cooperation.

Run on Bank Stopped.
The recent cables from Peking showing bank runs there and forecasting military clashes and a possible fall of the Peking government are attributed by Chinese here to Japanese machinations and it is pointed out that Baron Kato called pointed attention to China's difficulties and that Japanese spokesmen and writers are making the most of it.

strong enough.

United Chambers of Commerce of China and the United Provincial Educational associations, a Canton government sympathizer, received a cable from Huang Yen Pei, president of the Kiangsu Provincial Educational association, as follows:

"Run on Bank of Communications over. Japanese instigated."

Mr. Chiang said despite the political differences in China all the people of that country were behind the efforts of the Chinese delegation here.

Governor and Friend Slain in Argentina
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 20.—(United News.)—Dr. Jones, governor of the province of San Juan, and a friend were assassinated by six men armed with rifles and revolvers while promenading in a suburb of the city of San Juan this afternoon. The crime was the outcome of recent political disturbances between Irigoyen and Conservatives. The dead governor was an intimate friend of the Argentina president, Hipolito Irigoyen.

PALM FOR STUDY GIVEN CO-EDS AT NORTHWESTERN

Semester Report Shows Men Poor Second.

Northwestern university students spent yesterday studying their scholarship records for last semester, which were issued from the office of President Walter Dill Scott.

They show: The girls had a higher scholastic average than the men. Fraternity members did not make as high marks as nonmembers. Delta Zeta sorority again had the highest average of all sororities, fraternities, and nonfraternity students. Scribblers, a local fraternity, had the highest average among the men's organizations, but was far below the mark reached by members of Delta Zeta. Acadia, a Masonic fraternity, followed Scribblers.

Two Women "Perfect."
It was discovered that in the chapter roll of Delta Zeta there are two "perfect" women students, Miss Marian Dittman of Chicago and Miss Grace Hoadley of Lafayette, Ill., who during the half year of school received 100 per cent in every subject. They are taking full courses.

Among those responsible for the high scholarship of the Delta Zetas are Miss Lillian Bollenbach, president of Northwestern university chapter, and Miss Dorothy Herrick of Park Ridge, who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa for excellence in academic work.

Active in Campus.
The young women who obtained perfect marks are active in many campus affairs. Miss Hoadley, who is majoring in history and Latin, is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa.

HUGE GAS FIELD IN LOUISIANA, ISU.S. REPORT

New Orleans, La., Nov. 20.—A natural gas field, with "tremendous production potentialities," has been uncovered in Northern Louisiana, according to a report made public here today after an investigation by engineers of the United States bureau of mines, conducted for the state on request of Gov. Parker.

The report estimates that the total amount of gas remaining in the reservoir is roughly 4,750,000,000 cubic feet, or 32 cubic miles. Calculated at eight ounces pressure above atmosphere, with indications that the volume is much greater because the limits of the field had not been finally determined at the time the investigation was concluded.

U. S. NAVY PLAN LESSENS CHANCE OF WAR—SCHEER

German Admiral Shows How It Will Work.

BY ADMIRAL REINHARDT
SCHEER.

[Written Especially for The Chicago Tribune
Foreign News Service.]

WEIMAR, Germany, Nov. 20.—According to the Hughes formula the Anglo-Saxon fleets will tend to become equal, while the Japanese fleet will be about a half as strong. The main question is whether there is a healthy idea behind this plan.

If the proposed plan, or something similar to it, is accepted, then England's naval supremacy, always admitted hitherto, ceases to exist. It is replaced by a balance of naval powers, balanced so that an alliance of two of them makes it extremely dangerous for the third, thus forcing the third to yield. This represents a guarantee that no one of the powers would infringe on the rights specified in the general agreement.

There is no chance for a single nation to become dangerous to another by attacking it: the attacked is always in the more favorable position.

For instance should England's fleet want to attack America it must first cross a distance six times longer than the distance separating England from Germany in the world war, only to find a fleet as strong as itself and with all the help which the resources in its background can yield.

In the Pacific, Japan has no chance against the west coast of America since her strength is five to nine, but Japan has a great chance for attacking the American vanguards—the Philippines. The loss of the Philippines would be more of a loss of prestige for

1. France and Italy are reported to be on the verge of an attitude of limitations of submarine construction. They point out that the submarine tends to equalize them against Great Britain, as the latter holds the surface of the Mediterranean as a British lake, and they are too poor to build battleships against her.

America than damage which might be done by a war.

Since America must protect a group of islands 7,000 miles from San Francisco, the strength would be right if formed according to the principle: the attacking party is to have the better chances so that an outbreak of war can be prevented.

In examining Japan's and England's strategic position I come to the same conclusion. The main condition is that there be no secret alliance between any two of these powers. Thanks to the Hughes ratio, making an easy victory for any combination of two of the powers, the probability of war is lessened as far as the naval line is concerned.

The main factor has not been considered with sufficient clearness: the development of submarine fleets. With

2. Great Britain's points of control of the Mediterranean sea are Gibraltar, Malta (3), Egypt (4), Cyprus and the Suez canal (5), and Constantinople (6). By means of these strategic spots a strangle hold is kept on the sea, which only submarines can break, France and Italy assert.

100 U boats of 1,000 tons each, or of fifty of 2,000 tons each, every power would have a great chance at a commercial war against another power.

DUBLIN, Nov. 20.—"Bloody Sunday," the anniversary of the deaths of Gen. Richard McKee of Dublin, Capt. Peter Clancy and Conor Clune, both of Clare, was marked by a big demonstration here today. The three officers of the "Irish Republican" army were killed one year ago while attempting to escape from Dublin castle. On the same day several military men and policemen were killed and there were "black and tan" reprisals at a football game in Croke park in the afternoon, resulting in many casualties.

Twelve thousand persons took part in the parade. The Dublin brigades of the "Irish Republican" army turned out in full strength, accompanied by many bands.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—William J. Daly Jr., 13, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by his chum, Edward D. Fitzgerald. The boys were returning home from a moving picture drama of wild deeds and cowboy shooting. Fitzgerald's greatest treasure was an ancient Derringer pistol. After shooting at tomato cans Fitzgerald laughingly said: "Now, I'll use you as a target," intending to shoot over Daly's head. There was a flash and Daly pitched forward on his face.

REILLY DISPUTES 'PAPER EQUALITY' OF HUGHES PLAN

British Merchant Ships Seen as Menace.

BY GEN. HENRY REILLY.
(Editor Army and Navy Journal.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—It has been pointed out previously in these columns that the apparent equality between the American and British navies under the terms of Mr. Hughes' proposals for limiting naval armaments is not a reality. Somewhat detailed analysis has been made that shows at least a 10 per cent superiority of naval strength over us due to the very valuable world-wide system of British naval bases, while corresponding American bases in European waters are altogether lacking. The British merchant marine is a further important element in British naval strength. It is not so large as theirs, especially in the types of ships readily convertible into war units. The disproportion has the effect of materially altering in favor of the British the apparent intent of the Hughes proposal to make us equal.

Keep Eyes on Merchant Ships.
This aspect of the matter was recognized by the authors of the Hughes proposals, the final paragraph of which reads:
"As the importance of the merchant marine is in inverse ratio to the size of naval armaments, regulations must be provided to govern its conversion features for war purposes."
The casual reader may assume that it is possible to draw up effective regulations to prevent the conversion of merchant ships for war uses. Such an assumption would be far from the truth. Agreement may be reached, and probably will be, restricting any such conversions during peace. This would probably cause delay of from one to three weeks in making the changes after a declaration of war, but it would not affect the inherent suitability of certain classes of merchant vessels for service as men of war.

GERMAN ENVOY

No regulations the conference could devise would prevent the use of such vessels to increase the naval power of any nation having them available.
Trade Ships as War Vessels.
In naval warfare converted merchant vessels are exceedingly valuable especially ever way in which a regular cruiser is useful and the role of cruisers is a very important one in any naval operations.
Primarily the cruiser is intended to scout for information which is essential as the basis of plans and movements. It happens that the American navy is particularly weak in just this type of ship, while the British are already well supplied with them.

If we had to meet them in anger today their fleet could keep itself supplied with information and maneuver accordingly, whereas our fleet would suffer the great handicap of having to work rather blindly.
Lloyd's register shows that of large ocean liners of more than 10,000 tons and capable of making fifteen knots or more, the British merchant marine comprises eighty-one ships, while the American merchant marine can boast but fifteen.
Such a condition cannot fail to change the apparent paper equality under the Hughes agreement into a material superiority for the British navy.

LIQUOR CRAZED OHIOAN HELD IN TRIPLE TRAGEDY

Wilmington, O., Nov. 20.—Oliver Vandervort, 32, a fur dealer, is held in the Clinton county jail on a charge of murder following a triple tragedy at Cuba, a village near here, last night. Those slain were Bertha Whitlow Vandervort, 30, his divorced wife and mother of his three children; Mrs. Jeff Whitlow, 57, mother of Mrs. Vandervort; and Howard Bosler, 24, said to have been a caller on Mrs. Vandervort. Mrs. Whitlow, the police say, declared that Vandervort committed the murders. The police say she told them Vandervort came to her home while intoxicated and started a quarrel which ended in the shooting of the three.

Rodney Wallace, a farmer living near the Whitlow home, informed the authorities today that Vandervort, while crazed by drink, shot him last night. Vandervort told the authorities that he was not responsible for the triple murder. He claims that while walking in the road in front of the Whitlow home, he heard a commotion and saw in the darkness, a figure rush from the door. He said he could not tell whether the figure was that of a man or a woman.
He insisted his 10 year old son, Oliver, rushed from the house to call for help, and induced him to enter.
Asked by the authorities who did the shooting, the boy said: "Papa did it." The three small Vandervort children were the only witnesses to the tragedy.

An Oriental Rug to Commemorate Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING DAY is a holiday centered in tradition about the home. The custom of adding a feature of beauty to the home on this day is growing more and more in favor.

This year, let us suggest an Oriental Rug of genuine Pushman Quality as your Thanksgiving gift to your family.

It will retain its original beauty for a long time to come and will take on a new significance each Thanksgiving Day to come.

In making this suggestion, it hardly seems necessary for us to add that our stock is so extensive that we can make possible a gift of this sort for a relatively small expenditure. By all means call and allow us to show you personally how satisfactorily we can serve you.

Avoid Constipation and Enjoy Health

Constipation is a real burden, destroying health and bringing discomfort. For this reason a prescription was tested and tried out and subsequently put up in tablet form. It is called DILATIN—and it permanently relieves the most stubborn cases of constipation. People who have tried DILATIN say that the old axiom "There is Nothing New Under the Sun" is all wrong. They say that DILATIN is new.

You will soon see that DILATIN gives natural action and is a liver regulator and not a purgative, and contains nothing that is habit-forming. It contains the necessary elements to correct constipation and to aid elimination. It keeps the intestinal tract in normal healthy state, which promotes good health.

If you are constipated or if you have trouble with your bowels, DILATIN is the answer. It is only a matter of time before DILATIN will be recognized as constipation's enemy. The DILATIN as directed and you will agree that it is remarkable.

Newspapers and billboards already are publishing advertisements selling DILATIN. It is only a matter of time before DILATIN will be recognized as constipation's enemy. The DILATIN as directed and you will agree that it is remarkable.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with the right; but our country, right or wrong!"

—Stephen Decatur.THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO*1—Build the Subway Now.*THE BALANCE OF POWER.

One development possible through British and Japanese acceptance of the United States suggestion at Washington for reduction of naval armaments and a naval holiday is the creation of a "balance of power" situation in the Pacific similar to that on which European international relations were based for many years prior to 1914. If the Hughes program is accepted and put into effect without other safeguards or changes in international understandings probably no one of the three principal powers involved can move another by force, but any one can move another with the assistance of the third.

That brings us again to consideration of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Under that alliance Britain will not come to the armed assistance of Japan in a war strictly between the United States and Japan. But if Japan is attacked by a third party Britain will assist the Japanese, while if the United States is attacked by a third party Britain will not assist us. What would be easier than for Japan, in the event of war with the United States, to promote a Chinese or Korean or Russian attack upon Japan, and so bring Britain into the war against the United States under the alliance? In brief, the alliance means that Britain cannot assist the United States but can assist Japan. Thus if there is "balance of power" in the Pacific, while that alliance stands the balance will be against the United States. That it may be aggressively as well as potentially against us is indicated by the history of Japan under the alliance.

The alliance originated against Russia and was renewed against Germany. Under its protection Japan seized territory from them both and eliminated them as trade rivals.

The Japanese forget the facts and plead for greater confidence. They are pained. They forget, but we cannot forget, that they attacked China a week before declaring war; that they seized Shanghai from Germany with a promise to return it to China, and are still holding it tenaciously; that they ignored British priority arrangements and took concessions in the Yangtze valley by coercion; that they have repeatedly flouted the open door policy in China to which they had subscribed; that their immigration to the United States has totaled more since they made the "gentlemen's agreement" than it did before; that, in brief, every international pledge they have made outside formal treaties since the formation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance has been broken by their government in whole or in part.

If they were anything but Japanese they would not wonder that they are mistrusted. But the Japanese mind is Japanese. Thus Viscount Uchida said recently that "all accusations to the contrary notwithstanding, Japan has never been aggressive in her policy toward other nations." And Baron Ijima says he has "never known a time when the China policy of Japan has shown any tendency to territorial aggression."

These statements come in face of Japan's annexation of Korea and Formosa and Sakhalin, in face of her penetration of Manchuria and Shantung, in face of Port Arthur, the Dairen peninsula and Vladivostok, in face of the "Twenty-one Demands" on China, and in face of her mandate over the German islands north of the equator.

They reveal the peculiar Japanese belief that seizure of territory is not aggression or military aggression if it can be construed in Japan as needful for the defense of the empire. Thus all of Japan's wars have been for "preservation of the peace." It is plain that to Japanese statement "peace" means not what we mean by the word but the reduction of resistance by Japanese domination.

In such circumstances it must and will be made clear to Britain that continuation of the pact with Japan will be tying the white people of England and the dominions to a people totally different politically, morally, and economically, as well as racially and socially, from either the British or Americans, and that therefore it is dangerous to the white races of the world.

Japan submits to exclusion of Japanese immigrants by the dominions because it is compensated by the alliance. If the alliance is denounced the racial question will arise. The British dominions will then have the support of America, whose interest is identical. But if it is not denounced America cannot have the support of the dominions. Then if America were sufficiently anxious to avoid war with Japan to admit Japanese immigrants, Australasia and Canada could not maintain exclusion. We intend to allow no such development, but the mere suggestion proves that this is one problem for the United States and Great Britain. The only way to give it and for this country and Britain to negotiate successfully in Washington for the benefit of both countries is to denounce the alliance.

Without the support of the alliance Japan would not dare attack the United States. That means that without the alliance there would be no war, because Japan possesses absolutely nothing which the United States desires to seize for itself. The alliance leaves the way to war open. Elimination closes it as far as the United States and Japan are concerned.

A BIT MIXED UP.

Thompson's unemployment commission has a comic scene. Its first session undertook the repeal of the Volstead act, some league of nation business, the collection of our foreign loans, the payment of a soldier bonus, and a few other things which have caused comment in these and other parts.

The commission, we think, has made a slight mistake. The unemployment in question is not that of its members.

CENSORING PROFESSIONAL CRITICS.

There is a report from Washington that navy officers who have been overheard to criticize the Hughes plan are in danger of official rebuke and even punishment. Considering the curious custom in our army and navy of discouraging independence of thought and frankness of expression as to our defense conditions, the report is plausible.

But it is not the more palatable for that reason. We have called the custom curious, and so it has seemed to us, since a republic ought to be more hospitable to free speech than an aristocracy or bureaucracy. Yet the outspoken criticism of army and navy management has come from British and French experts. No American officer in either service has spoken or written with anything like the candor of Lord Fisher or Sir Percy Scott or Capt. Wright.

The result of our official obscurantism is hurtful to the army and the navy and dangerous to the country. The lessons of the war, and they were many, are not being driven home, and that is inexcusable.

As for the Hughes plan, it is of the utmost moment to America's security and welfare. If it is sound it will stand criticism and be the stronger for it. In the respects in which it cannot survive competent discussion, it does not deserve to survive it, and most certainly should not be allowed to survive.

No one should be muzzled during this conference, especially the men who have given their lives to the study of our defense problems. If they have a professional bias, the best way to correct it is to let it out into the open where it can be examined and disposed of. We have a plenty of uninformed and emotional discussion, snap judgments, and glittering generalities. We need a balance for our tendency to swallow any project which has an altruistic object in foreign affairs. We are dealing with governments in no danger of giving any selfish advantage away, with statesmen experienced in the cynical negotiation of national advantages. At Paris we played every one's hand but our own. We ought to learn from that experience that it doesn't pay even from the viewpoint of international peace, our alluring dream. If we want to make that dream come true, we shall conserve the strength that is ours, for righteousness sake. This does not mean we are not to accept sacrifice. It means we should not throw our sacrifice away as we did in Paris.

FORD'S "IMPROVED" OFFER.

Henry Ford, in conference with Secretary Hoover, improves his offer for the Muscle Shoals dams, power plants, and nitrate plants to the extent of offering to construct dam No. 2, which previously he wanted the government to complete at an estimated cost of $25,000,000, which he would amortize and for which he would pay 6 per cent interest.

The Ford engineers argue that the government should sustain part of the cost of the dam as compensation for the aid to navigation which it will provide. Evidently Mr. Ford and his engineers have either failed to study the federal water power act under which the deal must be made, or they believe the public has not studied it.

This act provides plainly in section 11 that a license may be required "to the extent necessary to preserve and improve navigation facilities, to construct in whole or in part, without expense to the United States, in connection with such dam, a lock or locks, booms, sluices, or other structures for navigation purposes."

It is clearly the intent of the act to safeguard navigation from obstacles constructed in development of water power, and also to improve navigation, and all without expense to the government. If Ford does this he is doing no more than the law contemplates. His theory that by making such an expenditure for improvement of navigation he will be paying the government sufficient to make up for other deficiencies in his offer seems weak, to say the least.

He must do better than that before the government will be justified in accepting his offer. The federal law expressly forbids acceptance of that offer as it now stands, even if it were of immediate financial advantage to the country. The law limits water power leases to fifty years, with provision for return to the government at the end of that period. Ford asks for a 100 years with privilege of renewal. Ignoring the business error of turning over $45,000,000 worth of improvements to him for $5,000,000 cash, the above point alone should be sufficient to require rejection of the Ford offer.

He has improved it, but there is room for much greater improvement. The water power of the Tennessee river will be available long after Mr. Ford has passed. In justice to the eighteen states which may use that power, it ought not to be tied up for generations merely to add more millions to Mr. Ford's present estimated income of $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

Ford got great concessions he was not entitled to from the Wilson administration. It is unthinkable that he should obtain greater ones in further violation of public policy from that of Harding.

Editorial of the DayPOLITICAL ENGINEERS.

(The Professional Engineer.)

Governor Small of Illinois tells the public he is building roads below estimated cost; the public, without asking the engineering department of Illinois, swallows hook, line, and sinker. Later it was found that the concrete roads the politician referred to as so cheaply constructed had already been graded—the governor neglected a little item of $7,000 a mile in boasting to the public.

A citizen of Illinois, in writing to the governor, protesting against political interference in road building program said that Governor Small's interference with the Illinois division of highways has this year reduced the proposed 500 miles of new pavements to thirty-eight miles, has failed to reduce the actual cost of the few miles built or contracted for, has added another reason to Illinois' record of expensive bad roads, and is threatening to subordinate the entire good roads scheme to politics.

"It is an engineering fact," said an experienced builder, "that completion of the 5,000 mile paved road system planned in the original Illinois program will save people of Illinois $12,000,000 every year. Every mile of good permanent pavement saves $2,000 a year in gasoline and wear and tear to the cars that go over it. Competition among builders in Illinois is too strong to allow profiteering. In one week more than 5,000 miles came in for the 183 miles of new work advertised."

So much for one case of political engineering. There are many others. In the past highway engineering has been afflicted with politicians. Let's get rid of the incompetent ones.

Another Version.

SEEST thou how Soracte stands glistening in its mantle of snow, and how the straining woods no longer uphold their burden and the streams are frozen with the biting cold? Dispel the chill by piling high the wood upon the hearth, and right generously bring forth in Sabine jar the wine four winters old, O Thallarchus! Leave to the gods all else. . . . Cease to ask what the morrow will bring forth, and set down as gain each day that Fortune grants! Nor in thy youth neglect sweet love nor dances, whilst life is still in its bloom and crabbled age is far away.

The Police Beat At Their Wit's End.
(From the Altair, Ill., Telegraph.)

Lost—One horse's tail, somewhere on East Broadway. Return to Louis J. Hartmann Co., West Third street.

The foregoing annoyed Watson until he received a letter copy of the Altair Telegraph. The tail, it seems, was lost Armistice Day. We quote:

The Hartmann Co. had a float in the parade, showing the Hart Schaffner and Marx Herald, mounted on a Wooden horse. This Herald is the national emblem of the Hart, Schaffner and Marx firm, manufacturers of men's suits, and it was brought to Alton for the float of the Schweppe store in the Armistice Day parade.

The tail of the horse was loose, so loose, in fact, that it was necessary for the men on the float to hire a boy—at 10 cents per hire—to ride the float and hold the tail of the wooden horse in place. When the end of the line of march was reached near Sportmans Park all on the float quickly jumped from the float and sought places of warmth. In the bustle, the tail was lost.

Now the tail was part of the wooden horse, but the tail was a real horse's tail, and its value was about $10.

HOW, asks an editorial writer, are the nations trying to remedy conditions? They are trying to make bankruptcy better by making conditions worse in certain countries.

OUR staff of trained investigators is sleuthing the rumor that the right hon. mikado purposes using Uncle Sam for alienation of the affections of the Mistress of the Seas. The r. h. m. is said to have them in a compromising position. TREASURE TROVE.

A crisp wind and a cloudless sky,
Across the road long morning shadows lie;
Into the cool blue day we ride,
You and I.

Oak woods, oaks dusky copper tints
Blink pink beneath the sun's warm kiss;
Willows, red hedges to the feeding road, and this,
A tiny bit of gray across our path,
Envoy of winter and the snow,
A Junco and his twittering cortege go.

The rustle of scar leaves 'neath our feet,
A purple aster in a sheltered nook,
The rousous cry of crows; and at the foot
Of some half dying oak,
Hidden beneath the leaves, the trove we seek—
The honey gold of mushrooms, velvet and sleek.

A crisp wind and a clear gray sky,
The open road, the day behind us lie;
But we have treasure trove for winter,
You and I.

SWEET PEACH.

The chief lesson in the life of Washington is service—whether as surveyor, charting the western frontiers, noting the land and water routes into the heart of the continent, marking how the French power lay, conceiving the policy which should dispose of it; whether as a Virginian soldier, Braddock's aid, commander in chief of the armed forces of the united colonies, President, or private citizen and farmer at Mount Vernon and Nestor to the nation—whatever task he applied himself he gave the full measure of devotion plus. And that explains why he stands as the supreme type of self-made man, for he triumphed over the handicap of wealth. Compared with which, the achievement of the youth spurred by poverty is as naught.

He believed, of course, in preparedness and "good faith and justice toward all nations. . . . It will be worthy of a free, enlightened, and at no distant period, a great nation, to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence."

His utterance during the constitutional convention is of the essence of the American ideal: "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair; the event is in the hand of God." The standard has since been raised by Wilson at Versailles and by Harding at the nation's capital—

"Who that sees the meanness of our politics, but only congratulates Washington that he is long already wrapped in his shroud, and forever safe, that he was laid sweet in his grave, the hope of humanity not yet subjugated in him."

EMERSON, like Brisbane, Shaw, and Anatole, was a cynic, another name for a sage.

YOU might be 12k that the telegraph operators, who just are all keyed up over the Washington conference, are now gayly whistling, "Back to Armistice Day."

How to Keep Well.
By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

DIGESTION HEADACHES.

HERE are many kinds of head aches—some due to one cause and some to another. In fact, the head is a regular bulletin board, on which most any organ in the body or most any habit of the individual can register.

It follows that what prevents headaches in one person is of no service as a preventive in the next one. After all other sources have been ruled out in a given case, there remains the possibility that faulty diet, faulty digestion, or faulty bowel habits may be responsible.

Dr. Thomas R. Brown says that these digestion headaches can be divided into four subgroups.

At the head of the list comes the headache due to eating too much starchy and sweet foods. Of course, we need to eat an abundance of carbohydrate foods, since that is the source of most of our heat and energy; but of the extent of the need, most of us overeat in this direction, and many of us suffer in consequence of the habit.

Most of the so-called bilious headaches belong to this group.

These headaches have the reputation of being cured by calomel. This may be the explanation of these cures. Calomel destroys the appetite and may cause nausea. The person taking a course of calomel has appetite for several days, and he may retain no food. The period of starvation cures his bilious headache and the course of calomel gets the credit.

The preventive treatment of cases of frequently recurring headaches, as given by Hare and Hutchinson and as endorsed by Brown, is as follows:

For two or three weeks a diet composed of lean meats, fats, greens, and acid fruits. No bread, no sugar, no starches of any kind. A person who can eat enough butter, cream, and olive oil to keep his weight up during this period, if he does not want to lose weight, he can add one or two slices of bread a day, one potato, and a little cereal. He will be free from headaches if he will stick permanently to a diet not much more liberal in bread and sugar than that used by diabetics.

Brown reports one chronic sufferer who has kept free from headaches for ten years by sticking to this diet.

His next group contains those who have headaches because they eat too much meat and eggs and too little starches and sugars.

What is meat for a fellow in the first group is poison for a fellow in the second. It not infrequently happens that the sufferer has learned by experience that meat and eggs or food of that kind bring on trouble. In some cases they have learned to go light on the entire group.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of the writers.

U. S. CITIZENS.
Forest Park, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Friend of the People.]—If a man was born in England and came to this country and did not take out naturalization papers would his children who were born in this country be entitled to vote? What is the age? Are there exceptions for people who come from England or France?

P. P. F.
The children would be native born citizens of the United States, entitled to all the privileges of United States citizens, including the privilege of voting.

We know of no exceptions for people from either France or England.

EQUAL SHARES.
Chicago, Nov. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man and wife owned some property in joint tenancy and sold it to be paid for in installments. The agent collects the payments and the husband dies. The wife is not satisfied with the money she receives. What steps should she take to get what is due her?

J. E.
She should notify the agent that he should stop collecting the payments. She should know that the amount should be, and should state it in the notice to the agent.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENT.
Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Friend of the People.]—Would thank you very much if you will tell me what chance there is for my alley to be paved in the near future? It is the alley running east and west, parallel to and between Eastwood and Wilson. There are several cars that have to be driven through there daily.

L. H. P.
We will soon hold a public hearing on the proposed paving of the alley between Eastwood, Wilson, Kimball, and Spaulding avenues. The project will be notified of the time and place set for hearing.

EDWARD J. GLACKIN.
Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

TRY ROLLS ON FLOOR.

L. F. writes: "I. Is grapefruit bad when one is eaten at breakfast and at night?"

Do they cause gallstones? "I work, but am trying to reduce. My meals are two rolls, coffee, grapefruit, for breakfast; two rolls, coffee, for lunch; two chops and two portions of vegetables, for dinner; grapefruit on retiring."

"I am 4 feet 11 inches and weigh 116 pounds. No clothes. Want to lose twelve pounds. Lost two pounds in two months. I work a bakery eight hours a day and eat one piece of cake daily 365 days a year."

REPLY.
1. No.

2. No.

3. If you will eat fewer rolls and less cake you will lose faster.

B. writes: "My wife suffered with a severe attack of gallstones recently and does not appear to recover her strength. She has had no medicine prescribed so far, but wonders whether she ought to have something to dissolve what that have not passed."

REPLY.
No medicine will or can dissolve gallstones. The medicines which are used to fool people along this line consist of oil and an alkali. When the oil and the alkali mix the intestine, stomachic fatty masses, somewhat resembling stones, are formed.

The more you takes the more stones you gets. Take a barrel of the oil and set a barrel of nice stones.

INFECTED DEEPER EAR.

Samuel K. writes: "Kindly advise me what to do, as I have had a running ear for about 4 years of age, when I had kidney trouble. I am now 17 years of age."

REPLY.
Have your ears tested. You have a chronic infection of the deeper ear and possibly there is some dead bone. You can learn how to carry out a good part of the treatment at home. It is probable that the same infection which caused the ear trouble also caused the kidney trouble.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 20.—The police have raided the Khilafat headquarters, seizing flags, banners, and a large quantity of so-called Swami rope notes dated 1922, with a picture of Gandhi on them. Ten arrests were made.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Latest cables report Bombay quiet today, the police and military having quelled on Friday and Saturday a native rioting which resulted in 100 arrested, 200 wounded, and eleven dead.

Sporadic flareups of rioting in native quarters continue, but the India office states the authorities have the situation in hand. The Prince of Wales is safe, and it is reported Mahatma Gandhi, whose noncooperation agitation is responsible for the riot, has definitely renounced his civil disobedience project. He states, it is said, that he is unable to control the mob and cannot conduct a civil disobedience campaign to a successful issue unless nonviolence is practiced.

Burn Police Station.

Further details Friday night stated the mob burned a district police station and a night followed, the Indian in rioting in the crowd. Saturday morning a mob approached the Dada diya works, on the outskirts of the city, with the object of preventing the European staff from working. The staff, armed with rifles, fired on and dispersed the crowd. The military fired on other mobs in Bombay during the morning.

The agitation is aimed against European dress, women and children being ill treated. Fires are reported in various parts of the city.
The Prince of Wales visited Poona yesterday, receiving a big ovation at the capital, where there was an imposing state procession of cavalry in gorgeous uniforms. He returned to Bombay last night.

Wales to Spend Four Months.

BOMBAY, Nov. 20.—[United News.]—The Prince of Wales plans a four months' visit in India and expects to leave Bombay tomorrow for a tour of the country. He is to hold a monster reception for the India rulers at Delhi. Many attempts were made in England to prevent the visit, in the belief that the arrival of the prince would prove a signal for the unleashing of the gradually increasing Indian ferment.

The elaborate precautions for his safety have been increased.
Most trouble was feared from the followers of Mahatma Gandhi, the Hindu "noncooperation" leader, but it is significant that this faction is not actively concerned in the present outbreaks.

Radical followers of the Parsees are charged with inciting the present disturbances.

LAWRENCE EARLE, ARTIST, DROPS DEAD ON STREET

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 20.—Lawrence C. Earle, internationally famed as an artist, dropped dead here this afternoon on his way to a dinner engagement.

Mr. Earle, one of the representative figures in American painting, both in water colors and in oils, was born in New York City, Nov. 11, 1846, and came to Grand Rapids in 1887.

Mr. Earle was an honorary member of the Association of the National Academy.

Mrs. Mary Lockas, 40 years old, Lockport, Ill., grieved for her husband, dead three weeks. Yesterday her sister, Mrs. Anna Patra, 327 West 23d place, with whom she stayed, smelled gas. Mrs. Lockas and her 14 year old son Peter were dead.

"DEVON GANG" IS IDENTIFIED BY 25 MORE VICTIMS

Twenty-five out of 466 victims of recent holdups visited the detective bureau yesterday and, in a "showup," identified Ira Perry, Harold Sullivan, Joseph Shean, Andrew Bayle, and Walter Clark, members of the "Devon avenue gang," as participants in their particular robberies.

The five youths—the oldest of whom is 25—have already confessed implication in more than 200 crimes, at least two of which were murders.

Among the identifications were those of Bayle and Witt for a $40,000 fur robbery at the store of Mrs. Rose Silverstein, 6717 Stony Island avenue, last November and of Bayle as the man who robbed a messenger of the Irving Park National bank of $5,250 Sept. 13.

Edward T. Sturch, alias Gyddi, 23, 2105 Grace street, and Charles Carlson, alias Hemming, 20, no address, were arrested in St. Louis last night by Chicago police as two of the three men who held up and robbed the fur shop of Mrs. Ida Strumpf, 1108 Berwyn avenue, Oct. 31, and escaped with furs reported valued at $10,000.

SENATE DELAYS PLAN TO CENSOR WAGERS IN PRESS

Reformers Howl for Law
to Keep Mails Pure.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Notwithstanding the clamor of radical reformers led by the Rev. William F. Crafts, blue law advocate, the senate judiciary committee has decided to put off action until the next session of congress, already approved by the house, closing the mails to newspapers containing information regarding racing results, odds on horse racing, and suggestions and selections for the placing of bets.

The committee believes the measure so important it should receive

The children of the Ennis family, living at 39 East Schiller street, have felt the heart appeal of the starving kiddies in famine stricken Russia, and yesterday sent to the fund $10.60. The fund has reached $4,514.82. Contributions yesterday were $105.60, as follows:

The Ennis children, 39 E. Schiller St. $10.60
C. E. Tompkins 10.00
M. J. J. 5.00
E. H. J. 50.00

thorough consideration before action is taken. Hearings probably will be ordered and all persons interested given time to present their case.

Invasion of Press Rights.
Many senators regard the bill as a serious invasion of the liberty of the press and predict that if the measure ever passed the senate it would be only after drastic amendments. The legislation was passed by the house Oct. 14 as a rider to a bill amending the postal laws. It was offered by Representative Walsh, Mass. (Rep.), and it was adopted after brief debate and with less than a fifth of the house membership present. No previous consideration had ever been given to the question in committee or on the floor. Here is Law in Question.

The text of the Walsh rider follows: "No newspaper, postcard, letter, circular, or other written or printed matter containing information or statements, by way of advice or suggestions, purporting to give the odds at which bets or wagers are being laid or waged, upon the outcome or result of any horse race, prize fight, or other contest of speed, strength, or skill, or setting forth the bets or wagers made, or offered to be made, or the sums of money won or lost upon the outcome or result of said contests by reason of such bets or wagers, or which sets forth suggestions as to the odds at which bets or wagers should or may be made or laid shall be deposited in or carried by the mails of the United States, or be delivered by any postmaster or letter carrier, and such matter is hereby declared to be nonmailable, and any person who deposits or causes to be deposited, or shall send or cause to be sent any such thing to be conveyed or delivered by mail, shall be fined not more than $5,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both such fine and imprisonment."

Another Bill Considered.
The Walsh rider is being considered by the judiciary committee of the senate in connection with the Sterling bill which would forbid the transmission of racing odds and results over interstate wires. "I do not expect my amendment to abolish racing entirely," Mr. Walsh said, "but it certainly will curtail gambling, and interest in race gambling must necessarily decrease when the mails are closed to newspapers, letters, circulars, and other printed matter furnishing form sheets, suggestions how to bet and daily 'selections,' odds paid, and other data of this sort. The amendment, of course, will be much strengthened should the senate add a prohibition against the use of telegraph and telephone wires for the transmission of race news."

"I have been to county fairs and trotting races in Massachusetts, but I have never seen a running race. I have never bet on a horse race, but I do know that the gambling spirit which seems to be taking possession of the country ought to be checked."

To the Young Man Who Has Run Into Trouble

TO the young man—or to any man or woman who is afflicted with a so-called "social" disease—this is a message of vital importance.

Whatever other aspects your problem may have, it is nevertheless a medical one. As such, it calls for the very best of medical treatment, administered by reliable medical men.

Whatever you do, don't listen to street-corner advice. It may bring disaster. Go frankly to your family physician—or come to the PUBLIC HEALTH INSTITUTE, where every case, acute or chronic, receives the best of care and treatment regardless of the person's financial condition.

Founded by Prominent Citizens
The Public Health Institute is the work of the prominent business men named here. These men have organized the Institute, not for gain, but wholly in the interest of the public health and good.

These men realize the prevalence of the so-called "social" diseases and the menace to our manhood and womanhood. And as a public duty, they are carrying on through the Institute the work of prevention and treatment so well advanced by our army surgeons during the war.

The Benefits

At the Institute you will receive the benefit of the care and services of physicians of known competence, who have at their disposal every modern facility employed in the treatment of these diseases. This includes a complete laboratory service, so necessary in making or confirming diagnoses.

The Institute employs the very same method of treatment which was so successfully used in the army during the war. This is the most effectual treatment for these diseases known to medical science.

The purpose of the Institute is to make the fees as low as possible consistent with the highest standard of medical service—in order to bring it within the reach of anyone. No one need forego the benefits for lack of money.

Call Any Time

Call at any hour for consultation. Call for treatments when most convenient for you. There is every provision for privacy.

Everyone interested in the work of the Institute is invited to call for or write for the facts. Complete explanatory booklet sent by mail under plain cover.

GIRL WITNESSES TELL TODAY OF "FATTY'S" PARTY

Defense Prepares Warm Reception for Them.

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The pyrotechnics promised in the trial of "Fatty" Arbuckle will be touched off tomorrow when Miss Zey Preston-Prevost takes the stand for the prosecution.

Miss Prevost, who gave damaging testimony against the comedian during the police court hearing on the murder charge, is one of the "impounded" witnesses for whose benefit Attorney Gavin McNab of the defense has prepared many things.

McNab has declared he will show that Miss Prevost was compelled by the state to testify as she did at the police court hearing, under threats of putting her in jail.

Brady Scouts Allegations.

District Attorney Matthew Brady has promised to resign if McNab makes any such showing in court.

Miss Prevost's story is to the effect that Arbuckle entered room 1219 in the St. Francis hotel immediately after Miss Virginia Rappe, that he locked the door, and that later Miss Rappe screamed, "I'm dying! He hurt me!"

Miss Albee Blake, also a show girl, and also one of the "impounded" witnesses—to use McNab's adjective—will follow Miss Prevost and testify that she and Mrs. Bambina Delmont kicked and knocked on the locked door, that Arbuckle opened it, and they then found Miss Rappe in agony, suffering from the injury that caused her death.

Doctor May Take Stand.

Plumb Urges Purchase of Railroads by U. S.

Charging that railroads in the United States are "financial, physical, mental, and moral bankrupts," Glenn E. Plumb, originator of the "Plumb plan" of railroad operation and special attorney for the railroad brotherhoods, spoke yesterday to the Public Ownership conference at the Congress hotel. He advocated purchase or condemnation of all roads by the government.

All With a Few Cornell Panels

With a few packages of Cornell-Wood-Board you can finish an Attic, Basement or Spare Room, or line your garage against the frigid blasts of winter. Construct a Partition or a Closet—or the walls and ceilings for the whole interior of the building.

Besides, there is nothing more fascinating in the Manual Training of your boys and girls. "Making things" with Cornell-Wood-Board gives useful amusement to thousands of old and young.

But be careful to get the genuine Cornell-Wood-Board, because our "Triple-Sizing" process gives Cornell triple the protection of ordinary wall-board against warping, buckling, sound and change in temperature, and makes Cornell strong and rigid.

Also because Cornell comes already primed for painting—"Mill-primed"—and has the attractive "Oatmeal Finish"—pronounced the most beautiful surface ever attained in a wall-board.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO BRING CANADIANS TO STOCK SHOW

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Canadian farmers with their blue ribbon herds and flocks will arrive here Wednesday or Thursday to attend the International Live Stock exposition, which opens at the stock yards Saturday. Their special combination passenger and live stock train left Winnipeg in plenty of time for the dominion farmers to get their exhibits in place for the opening day.

Canada will be well represented in the horse fair, which opens in the tank arena Saturday night. On the train will come many show ring winners from Winnipeg stables. The train is planning to get here in time to rest their animals before they are to be exhibited.

More horses will compete this year than ever before, according to officials of the horse show. The show ring Saturday night will be given up exclusively to Chicagoans. Many of the high steppers that were exhibited at the New York horse show will compete.

Dash and pep will be added to the show by the polo matches, which are to begin Saturday night, and will be held every evening of the week. There will be a bitter contest on the opening night between the Onwentsia Polo club of Lake Forest, the Army Free

JUDGE LANDIS ADDS ANOTHER YEAR IN HIS JOURNEY TO A CENTURY

"I shall retire from the bench when I am 96, and the last four years of my life I shall spend in hunting and fishing." So said Judge Keneaw Mountain Landis a year ago.

He put another year behind him yesterday and laid aside the cares of the bench and traveled to the Indiana home of his family to celebrate his fifty-fifth birthday.

Judge Landis was born in Ohio.

Scottish cattle experts, who will judge at the International, are in the middle of the Atlantic by this time sailing for this country, according to word received by show officials. Among the Scottish live stock authorities is W. Watson of Balcarin, Old Melburn, Aberdeenshire. He is considered one of the greatest live stock authorities in the world, and will select the grand champion steer of the exposition, the honor coveted by cattle men all over America.

68 DISPUTES OF LABOR IN HANDS OF UNCLE SAM

Mooseheart, Ill., Nov. 20.—The department of labor has sixty-eight labor disputes on its hands at present, fifty-three of which are open strikes. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis said in a statement here today. Many of the disputes, he declared, are long drawn differences left over from previous months, while fifteen are only industrial differences. All have been referred to the labor department for impartial settlement through the disinterested efforts of the special division or conciliation.

Speaking of the strike of milk wagon drivers in New York, Secretary Davis said: "Metropolitan New York consumes 2,000,000 quarts of milk a day. This milk is supplied by 450,000 cows and comes from 1,150 dairies, clearing 40-

000 farms in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and even Canada. The shortest haul is forty miles and the longest 600, and 11,500 workers in New York, Long Island, New Jersey, and Connecticut are needed to handle and deliver the output.

"The milk bottles containing it, placed end to end, would make a line 125 miles long, or enough to encircle Manhattan Island three times."

Among other strikes which Secretary Davis asserted the division of conciliation had settled was the Chicago strike of 6,000 teamsters and truck drivers.

Man Dies in Taxicab

from Drink of "Whisky"

Moonshine cost the life of Adam Waskevitch, 39 years old, an employee of the St. Paul railroad at Russell, Ill., last night. Waskevitch and John Palski, a friend, started from Kenosha to Russell in a taxicab. They had a quart of moonshine. When they reached the Birk hotel in Russell Waskevitch was dead.

THE holiday season just naturally suggests wholesome, savory food. It seems to say: "Be ready for Thanksgiving. Have the pantry full of good things—especially Atmore's Mince pies."

And it's easy to follow this excellent advice. Just roll a pie crust and fill it with Atmore's Mince Meat. No mixing or extras are needed. Everything is there from the "old-time flavor" to the choicest of spices and hand-picked fruits.

Such a pie as your oven produces, too! It will be unusually thick, luscious and plummy, for the whole, seedless raisins puff in baking and absorb the rich juices. Why not order your Thanksgiving Atmore's Mince Meat today?

Atmore's "Extra Family" Mince Meat is the finest possible Mince Meat blend. In bulk, small pails and jars. Atmore's "Celebrated" Mince Meat costs a trifle less yet makes a perfect pie.

Ask also for Atmore's Philadelphia Plum Pudding. "Ready to heat and serve." Comes in individual tins and in larger sizes for all the family.

DRUGGIST USES CEREAL MEAL FOR CONSTIPATION

In Drug Business 52 Years and Found Nothing to Compare With This Druggist's Food

If you want to know the truth about any product, ask the man who sells it if he uses it himself.

A prominent retail druggist has recently made the unsolicited statement that CEREAL MEAL, an appetizing Breakfast Food, is far preferable to any drug as consistent relief for Constipation. Here is his letter:

March 15th, 1921.

Gentlemen:

I have bought 3 packages of CEREAL MEAL and find it very satisfactory. I am 71 years young; was in the retail drug business for 52 years and am free to confess that I never took a dose of medicine that gave me as good and satisfactory results as CEREAL MEAL.

I shall continue the use of it so long as I need anything for my trouble—Constipation.

Yours truly,

J. W. H.

The discovery of a prominent Medical Specialist, CEREAL MEAL, gives sure results because the Cereals composing it contain the necessary Digestive Lubricating and Stimulating properties which easily and naturally, but without fail, induce bowel movements daily.

It will also give the same results after a year's use, because, unlike Drugs, it does not force Nature, but assists her.

And all this is guaranteed! If CEREAL MEAL is not satisfactory, your Dealer will gladly refund its price on the return to him by you of the unused portion.

Physicians agree that the majority of human ills can be traced to Constipation—Also that Drugs will not regulate.

Thousands of Physicians have already found in CEREAL MEAL an infallible, drugless relief for Constipation and one that keeps their patients regular.

It is already used in 4,800 homes in the State of Massachusetts alone.

You should be able to purchase a package of CEREAL MEAL in any first-class drug or grocery store in Chicago and neighboring cities and towns. If your dealer has no CEREAL MEAL in stock, advise him that he can purchase it from any Chicago wholesaler of drugs or groceries, and in the meantime purchase a package from some other dealer or write direct to manufacturer, The Cereal Meal Corporation, Chambers at Main St., St. Louis, Mo.

BERLIN TO SEEK FOREIGN CREDIT TO PAY WAR BILL

Wirth Scored by Press for New Burdens.

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—A communication handed to the reparations commission by Chancellor Wirth, telling of the German government's willingness to seek foreign credits required to meet the January reparations payment to the allies, has been received by the public as confirming the belief popularly held that the government possesses no illusions as regards its ability to secure a period of grace in which to meet its obligations.

Although the heads at the foreign office are reported to have made strong efforts to impress the members of the commission with the internal and external effects of a forced entry by Germany into the foreign money markets, it is asserted that the commissioners have declined to suggest other measures of relief for the country.

2,500,000,000 More Paper Marks. The reichsbank's statement for the week of Nov. 15, which was published on the eve of the departure of the commission for Paris, announced the addition of 2,500,000,000 marks in new paper to the national currency, bringing the total to more than 102,000,000,000 marks.

The nationalist newspapers are upbraiding the chancellor for "the miserable collapse of his policy and its fulfillment at the expense of the taxpayers," as the Tages-Zeitung puts it. This newspaper says the chancellor's optimism has resulted in the complete collapse of the national finances without the slightest prospect that the estate will give Germany's economic misery due consideration.

Fins Last Hope on Credits. The Lokal-Anzeiger expresses the belief that the cabinet already admits its inability to raise the gold needed to meet the January reparations payment and is planning its last hope to credit which industry and the banking world can furnish.

Be a Thanksgiving Host to Some Disabled Yank

Have you a Thanksgiving dinner in your home for a disabled soldier?

The Disabled Veterans' association is appealing to Chicagoans to invite wounded veterans for dinner next Thursday. There are some 600 of them here, according to Edward H. Hug, 167 Institute place, one of the officers of the association. Offers can be telephoned to Mr. Hug at Superior 9716; Samuel Solomon, Wabash 3389, or Harold De Baum, Harrison 8940.

BIRTH CONTROL CONDEMNED BY N. Y. ARCHBISHOP

Points to T. R.'s Race Suicide Stand.

New York, Nov. 20.—Protest against the use in New York of the open forum for disseminating the idea of birth control was made in a statement issued today by Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York.

"Common prudence and decency," he said, "should keep such discussion within the walls of a clinic, or only for the ears of the mature and experienced."

The laws of God and man, science, public policy, and human experience, he said, all were condemnatory of birth control, "preached by a few irresponsible individuals without endorsement or approval, as far as I know, of a reputable body of physicians or a medical society, whose province it is to advise the public on such matters."

Oppose Views of Scientists. He declared the tenets of birth control were in direct opposition to the opinion of many distinguished scientists of the world who had been making a serious study of the causes of impending deterioration of the race which had been foreseen by known biologists.

The recent congress of eugenics had emphasized, he said, the necessity of protection of monogamous marriages with a limitation of divorce, more children in the families of the well-to-do as a moral duty, earlier marriages, a more sheltered life for mothers, and unselfish devotion to the family as a patriotic duty.

Indorses Large Families. Physicians had found, he added, that successive children in a family, as well as parents, were most always stronger and healthier, and that children marked for special genius were very often born after the fifth in the family.

"The voice of Theodore Roosevelt," his statement continued, "still echoes throughout the world in his strong denunciation of race suicide and the sins against the cradle; his love of family life remains one of the most wholesome memories of his most noble character."

He said he felt it a public duty to protest against open birth control discussion, and that he did so not in a sectarian spirit but in the broader one of the common weal.

ILLINOIS REVERSAL OF FORM FEATURE IN "BIG TEN" RACE

WILCE MAY PROTEST

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—Coach Jack Wilce of Ohio State announced late tonight that he may protest unofficially yesterday's football victory of Illinois over Ohio State.

Game officials yesterday held that on this forward pass play the ball touched Wilce's hands, then struck Capt. Myers of Ohio State and bounced off his chest, and was recovered by Walquist without the ball having touched the ground.

Coach Wilce said the Illinois victory probably would stand, but added that the referee and umpire should know the facts. He did not indicate that he would protest the score to western conference officials.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The 1921 football season was brought to a successful close last Saturday when Ohio State and Yale, previously recognized as the peer of any eleven in the middle west and east, respectively, were beaten by Illinois and Harvard.

While the victory of the Crimson over the Bulldogs was not unexpected in the eyes of the Buckeyes by Coach Zuppke's fighting warriors was the big surprise of the western conference season. Given only an outside chance to win, the Orange and Blue players obtained ample revenge for their last minute defeat by Ohio a year ago.

Coach Zuppke and his players are deserving of great credit. Ohio supporters freely admitted this year's season was the greatest developed by Coach Wilce. They figured it could not be beaten, especially by a team which had lost to Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Chicago. Claims were made the team was more powerful than the one of last year when Pete Stuchamb was its chief asset and that of previous seasons when "Chick" Harley was the shining light.

Ohio's Pet Play of No. 10 Yale, Illinois had not succeeded in scoring a touchdown against any of the eleven it met. Michigan and Chicago were beaten by the Buckeyes, but both in turn took the measure of Illinois. The downstate team then went to the field and by showing an indomitable fighting spirit won from Ohio 7 to 6. Illinois simply outgrew Ohio, the same as Michigan did Wisconsin. Northwestern showed the same sort of spirit when it held Iowa to fourteen points. There may have been considerable overconfidence in the Ohio camp, but when the players found themselves backed up against the wall and their pet plays failing to gain, some credit is due the opponent.

Although Ohio had the advantage of play in the first half, Illinois held its ground. After the touchdown, Hopkins' men played winning football and successfully prevented Ohio from getting away with any of its famed last minute dashes to victory.

No Shadows on Iowa's Title.

Defeat of Ohio gave the undisputed championship to Iowa, which a condition was welcomed by every fair minded lover of conference athletics. For years the Hawkeyes have been playing their best football, but fate was against them. This year, Coach Harold Jones, one of the most thorough men in the Big Ten, started with a team of veterans.

The team gave evidence of its strength by beating Notre Dame on Oct. 1. On the following Saturday Illinois was taken into camp, and from that time until Northwestern was beaten last Saturday, Iowa played consistently. Not only is the team entitled to the Big Ten championship, but it deserves the western title as well. It is the first championship eleven developed at Iowa City since 1900.

Chicago and Wisconsin engaged in another of their great battles, and the Maroons were victors, 3 to 0. Milton Romney gave the Badgers a little of their own medicine by booting the oval game into the posts in the same manner as Dave did a year ago for the Cardinals. Overanxiousness on the part of Braden to block a field goal attempt gave Chicago a second attempt to score.

Michigan finished a successful season by running over and around Minnesota, 35 to 0. The Gophers were no match for the Wolverine, who gained ground on most any sort of plays. The 14 to 3 defeat by Ohio is the only blot on Michigan's slate. Early season injuries prevented Coach Yost from having his team intact for all conference games.

Northwestern made a great showing against Iowa. The Purple fought like teams of former years, and in the second half played the Hawkeyes to a virtual standstill. Two hard scheduled games at the start of the season prevented Coach McDevitt and his players from making a better showing.

Purdue and Indiana had another of their customary struggles at Bloomington, and the latter was victor, 3 to 0. The contest was decided under adverse playing conditions, but Capt. Kyle won the game for his team by booting a field goal.

ILLINOIS CAPTAIN?

DON PEDEN.

Logical choice for leader of Zuppke's 1922 eleven at Urbana.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Coach Zuppke's triumphal return to Rome after the Rubicon affair was a small fry occasion compared to the reception of Zuppke's fighting Illinois, conquerors of Ohio State, when their special train pulled in. Three thousand rosters arose at dawn to welcome Capt. Laurie Walquist and his band.

"I told the team that by beating Ohio they would create an imperishable, undying tradition; that their achievement in coming out of the slough of dependency would always live in Illinois annals," said Zuppke. "No coach could ask for a better response than was given by these eleven men."

Close Season with Glory.

Illinois has stuck to Zuppke through a terrible season, confident in his ability to do the best with what he had. Now the Illinois are more than ever convinced that he is the greatest of them all.

The special Illinois cheers today were for the team seniors—Capt. Laurie Walquist, whose sagacity closed his career so gloriously; big Jack Kneale, a hero of offense and defense; Milt Olander, indomitable fighter that he is; Al Mohr, who never wavered; and Johnny Sabo, who scrapped every minute.

Joe Sternaman was acclaimed for his brilliant spirit of seventy-five yards for the canceled touchdown. Don Peden, Clarence Drayer, Earl Greene, Dave Wilson, and Ott Vogel, who will be a neat nucleus for the 1922 eleven, were duly lauded.

Peden Slated for Captain.

The Illinois will make merry Monday evening at the annual football dinner tendered by the Champaign Rotary club. Don Peden is the only junior with two years varsity service, and he is to be regarded as the logical selection for captain.

CHANCES OF IOWA PLAYING GAME ON COAST ARE SMALL

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Chairman B. J. Lambert of the Iowa university board of control of athletics, received a telegram from Pasadena, Cal., today asking Iowa to take under consideration an invitation to play the western champions New Year's day. Hawkeye officials will discuss the proposal, but Prof. Lambert predicts that the possibility of acceptance is "exceedingly remote," as the Western conference rules are "decidedly opposed" to postseason games, even more so now than when Ohio played California, he added.

The Iowa champions were welcomed home today with bonfires, brass bands, and parades.

You do not really know the Lafayette until you have released the power stream of its hundred horsepower engine and tested its capacity for high per cent grades.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

ON Thanksgiving day afternoon at Stagg field, a benefit football game is to be staged between the American Legion and the Great Lakes football team.

The announcement that a football game is to be played at this season of the year really means nothing, but when one learns why the Legion boys and the tars are putting on this game, it should make one sit up and take notice. It is going to be a real benefit game, half of the proceeds of which will go to the Legion to help care for the disabled men from the various Chicago hospitals who will be honored guests that you haven't forgotten. You haven't, have you?

Charlie White, who is keeping on the trail of Bessie Leonard for a crack at the lightweight title, is letting no grass grow under his feet in fighting his way to that opportunity. Charlie left last night for Phoenix, Ariz., where on Thanksgiving day he will meet Freddie Hill, a coast lightweight, in a ten round decision affair. White believes he soon will get a crack at Leonard. In fact, he says preliminary negotiations are under way. Charlie is entitled to a Leonard match. Perhaps it is the same invisible hand that is keeping White and Pel Moore from a chance at the titles in their respective divisions. The truth will come out some day.

How long are the athletic and amusement fans of Chicago going to stand for the daily holidays perpetrated by the ticket scalpers, which honeycomb the city? How long is the city council going to stand for it? If the city fathers can't or won't stop it, how long will it be before the state act?

When a handit sticks a gun in your ribs, you shell out for self-preservation. When you pay a premium on tickets, you shell out for the scalpers' preservation. When foot prices reached the peak at the end of the war, housewives found the boycott a cure for the profiteers. Scalpers soon would find some other means of a livelihood if athletic and amusement fans would adopt a similar attitude on tickets.

IOWA BEST SCORING MACHINE

THE University of Iowa's football eleven, champion of the western conference and of the middle west, proved to be the best scoring machine in the Big Ten during the past season, but in defensive ability Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Chicago all surpassed the title winners on the basis of figures alone.

The following table shows the games won, lost, and tied by each team, the touchdowns, goals from touchdowns, field goals, safeties, and total points scored by each eleven, together with the opponents' touchdowns, goals from touchdowns, field goals, safeties, and total points. Only conference games are included, and the teams are listed in the order in which they finished on the basis of games won and lost:

| Team | W | L | T | TD | G | FG | S | Total | Opp TD | Opp G | Opp FG | Opp S | Total |
|--------------|---|---|---|----|----|----|---|-------|--------|-------|--------|-------|-------|

LOCAL PREP ELEVENS PLAY EASTERN TEAMS

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

Four local prep football teams will travel east to play sectional battles this week, while one eleven of the eastern circuit will play in Chicago. Deerfield, suburban champion, will play Brockton, Mass.; Proviso plays at Fitchburg, Mass.; La Grange will meet the La Salle High eleven at Philadelphia, and De Paul academy will play at Haverhill, Mass. In the game here La Grange's lightweight eleven plays Scott High of Toledo at Cub park. Carl Schurz will play at Benton, Ill., on Thanksgiving day.

Deerfield's grid squad, twenty-three strong, headed by Coach J. L. Rothacher, will leave for Boston tonight at 8 o'clock. A crowd of rooters will accompany the team to the train to give the champs a sendoff. The game will be played Thanksgiving day morning. La Grange's squad of fourteen men and Coach Osborne will leave for Philadelphia tomorrow night, and the game will be played Friday on Franklin field. Proviso will get away Wednesday a squad of twenty men for its game on Saturday.

Coach Joe Papau will also lead his De Paul squad away Wednesday. The Saturday game with Haverhill is an annual affair. The game between Lane lightweights and Scott High of Toledo, O., will be staged Saturday afternoon at Cub park.

TY COBB FINED FOR UMPIRE ROW

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Tyrus Cobb, manager of the Detroit American league baseball club and manager of the San Francisco team of the California winter league, was fined $150 as the result of an altercation with Umpire Phyle during yesterday's game between San Francisco and Vernon here. Cobb was fined $50 for abusive language and $100 for delaying the game.

SPORTING EDITOR IS NAMED "COLONEL" BY KENTUCKY GOVERNOR

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 20.—

Howard G. Reynolds, sporting editor of the Boston Post, today became a Kentucky colonel. His commission, appointing him to that rank on the staff of Gov. Morrow of the Blue Grass state, was tendered him "in appreciation of the spirit of clean, fair sportsmanship as evidenced by his kindness, consideration, and splendid treatment of the Centre college football team" in writing for his newspaper.

NATIONAL A. A. U. DELEGATES HERE FOR CONVENTION

Robert S. Weaver, president of the National A. A. U., arrived in Chicago yesterday to attend the annual convention of the association, which convenes this morning at the Hotel La Salle. President Weaver, assisted by Capt. Jim Robertson of Dartmouth, one of the season's stars, was in poor form when his eleven was sent against Syracuse, and it was partly because of his poor punting that the Orange was able to win, 14 to 7. Down in Bethlehem, Pa., Lafayette triumphed over Lehigh, 28 to 6.

West Virginia Underestimated

West Virginia underestimated the strength of Rutgers and started nine substitutes against them in the clash at New Brunswick, N. J. Rutgers scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and West Virginia, trying to overcome the lead, sent in its regulars. Only one touchdown could they accomplish, however, against the Rutgers defensive, and the final score was 12 to 7.

HARVARD'S ROUT OF YALE EPOCH IN CRIMSON LORE

New York, Nov. 20.—Harvard's victory over Yale in the final of the football season's Big Three meetings will stand as one of the greatest accomplishments of all the gridiron clans that have worn the Crimson.

There was every evidence before the first kickoff that the Crimson (Photo Und. & Und.) was outclassed, and in the early stages of the game, when Aldrich and Jordan plunged time and again through the Harvard tackles and center for gain and first downs, this predicted Blue superiority seemed to be proven.

Wind Causes Trouble.

And it was so later, when, with the wind against them, the Blue got in trouble on the kicking, but marched over into Crimson territory by the bulk of Jordan and the determined plunging of Capt. Aldrich.

But in the latter stages of the third quarter, Buell, who for two seasons had been in the Harvard lineup as a general, standing off and telling his warriors what to do, decided to carry out personally one of his own ideas. He did so in a splendid manner, and when he came to earth he was on Yale's 12 yard line.

Owen Scores Touchdown.

The quarter ended and in the beginning of the next Owen, the dependable, passed across yard after yard, from which Buell kicked goal.

Yale tried desperately to take the lead again, but Harvard's real defensive fight was made, and they were held. Later, when Owen booted a goal from the field, the final score was 12 to 7.

Rutgers Underestimated.

West Virginia underestimated the strength of Rutgers and started nine substitutes against them in the clash at New Brunswick, N. J. Rutgers scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and West Virginia, trying to overcome the lead, sent in its regulars. A sure stop - or a quick get away

About one car buyer in a hundred asks about brakes—or tests them. He is likely to buy a Franklin—the car with the sure, skidless stop.

The Franklin is easier to stop because it is light in weight. Also, because the service brake is on the drive shaft, it cannot stop one wheel more than the other. Skidding is thus minimized.

Franklin non-skid brakes, non-stallable motor, and easy handling are mind easers and life savers.

By Mae Thine.

And they made Tex Rickard pay $500 to show that film!

It's a crime! Why the Dempsey-Carpentier fight picture is or should be a knockout blow to all conscientious objectors' objections against prize fighting. It's a nice, clean, instructive film that should be shown to all school boys to demonstrate the valuable effect of exercise and fresh air on the human anatomy. It should stand as a monument to Tex Rickard, just as Solomon's W. M. temple has made Solomon famous. The arena, the management of the crowds, the evidence of a great brain behind all the workings of the preliminaries to the fight, and the fight itself all would carry their message to an active, adolescent brain.

If all prize fights are like this one I think the government should maintain a fund to send its young men as eye witnesses.

To be perfectly honest, the reason I haven't reviewed the picture before is because I didn't want to. I thought it was a horrid, gory thing that ought to be up to the sporting department. I thought the theater would be like a Roman hippodrome, with men grinding their teeth and shouting in awful ecstasy and women fainting and being carried out.

SAY! This fight isn't in it with the ordinary football game. I've seen Theda Bara and Charles Ray in worse. And remember the fight in "The Spoilers"? Also, in my opinion, it doesn't come up to the Flamingo-Crowe argument.

Another with a son worth having has seen battles that have hurt more than this one could. Why, it's only at the last of the last round that Carpentier is knocked down. And then, to be honest, I think he just got bored and lay down. The same old thing over and over—"Gee," said the lady of France, "it's hot, and a hundred years from now what'll be the difference?"

No gore. No nothing. Any time you think something's going to happen the referee, who's been jumping around like a rubber ball, but in (pardon me) separates the fighters. That may be ethics, but I'll tell the world it's NOT excitement.

The picture as a picture is the well produced history of an event in sporting circles. It is well photographed. It shows you "close up" people you've heard a lot about—the apellike Dempsey and the flower-faced Carpentier being the main actors. You see the training quarters and the fighters in training. You behold the arena, the crowds, the ring. Then you see the fight, fight, to see not half as well, the rubber ball, but a ticket and called it money well spent. Five hundred dollars to show the film! Five hundred dollars to show the film! Five hundred dollars to show the film! GOOD NIGHT!

GOOD NIGHT!

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

by Claire Dunn

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The old-time sleeve used to be settled as the old-time grandmother Remember the long, tight sleeve of the Bernhardt-William Dean Howells-Smedley illustrations period? Every body did them that way. Then in that other period when the top of the sleeve was distended like a balloon and ladies used to fill in conversational gaps by pulling them out to their widest capacity.

There is every indication that the wide Jenny sleeve is fast running its course. It has been repeated so constantly in the lower priced merchandise that the producer of costly models is apt to be shy of it.

Just now there is much interest in the model which is tight to just below the elbow, where it flares out into a fan shaped piece often ornately embroidered or beaded. Another sleeve which has appeared frequently in late collections is one which, distended below the elbow, is closely plaited until caught in at the wrist. Still another is a melon shaped sleeve extending from a tight cap.

Keep Looking Young!

SUBWAY'S SHOW 'RAPID TRANSIT' HERE MISNOMER

'L' Express Trains Merely Creep in Comparison.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago has no adequate rapid transit system. True, it has the elevated, but that serves only 25 per cent of the city riders, and at spots no one would call that rapid.

There is no express service on the city's park, Douglas park, Oak Park, Humboldt park, and Ravenswood branches. They have a few shoppers' specials and at times skip a few stations, but that is not express service.
In the south side the Englewood, Norwood, Jackson park, Kenwood, and stockyards branches get no express service, except between 40th street and Roosevelt road, and not all of them get that. The Northwestern express service is only from Wilson avenue to Chicago avenue.

Merely Crawl in Loop.

And all lower their speed to a snail's pace when they reach the downtown district. The schedule between Congress and Kinzie streets for the through route trains is at the rate of 14.5 miles per hour. That is eight minutes for the 1.31 mile. During the rush periods not even that pace is maintained; it is impossible.

Even the surface lines in the thickly populated loop at the rush hour claim an average speed of 4.96 miles per hour, and at other times in that district 3.32 miles. For the entire city the surface lines make an average of 3.44 miles per hour, according to sworn testimony of its officers.

Eighteen to twenty-four miles an hour is real rapid transit for a large city. The Chicago elevated has a schedule on certain tracks of eighteen to twenty-one miles an hour, which, it claims, compares favorably with the subway schedules of New York; but the Chicago high speed tracks are not through the loop.

Some Speed Figures.

The stock raiser who comes to Chicago with the intention of putting up the hotels in the Wilson avenue district finds that he must spend sixty-five minutes on a surface car to make the trip—if it maintains its schedule. If he uses the elevated and makes a perfect connection at his transfer point, he must spend fifty-five minutes on the car to arrive at Washington.

What Subway Would Do.

With a New York subway in Midway street the 3.12 miles between Western avenue and State street could be made in ten or eleven minutes, presented on a slow car, and in seven minutes on a fast car. That is the schedule, and it means a rate of less than 14 miles per hour. A reasonable subway time for the trip is less than twenty-five minutes, on the New York time schedule.

Many other illustrations are available, but those of yesterday and today are sufficient to indicate the enormous waste in time which subways would save. And that is not all of the sugar lost. The traction commission in New York asserted in elaborate reports last week that subways can be run successfully on a 5 cent fare.

Subways will save from one-third to one-half of the time of Chicago cars, and at the same time reduce the expense of riding 37.5 per cent, is every objection to starting subways with the money in hand and run them out of work?

Three Dead in Auto Accidents
Over Week End

A second death resulted yesterday from the crash of a "Soo line" fast train and an automobile at the Lee crossing in Des Plaines late Saturday night.

The second victim was O. W. Karon, 29, 2023 Alameda street, an attorney for the Chicago Motor club. He was killed at the Chicago Motor club.

Karlson and Harry Brodsky, 23, 3232
Fremont avenue, also an attorney for the club, had accompanied Nicholas Morse, 411 West North avenue, a member of the club, to Des Plaines.

Brodsky was driving. It is said he attempted to beat the train to the crossing. The machine was struck. Brodsky was instantly killed.

Two brothers riding on a newly purchased motorcycle were struck by a train. The younger, John Calovodka, 1111 South Sawyer avenue, was instantly killed, and the older, Steven, suffered possible internal injuries and a fractured leg.

Heinrich Heilmann, 40, was struck and almost instantly killed by a Yellow cab driven by Paul Teale, 1111 Fremont avenue. Teale is being held.

retary of the Hopewell Press, 122 South Michigan avenue, was taken to the psychopathic hospital last night for observation.

Poking Fun at the Lord of Creation

"ENTER MADAME."

Mrs. Lisa Della Robbia.....Gilda Varese

BY SHEPARD BUTLER.

MISS GILDA VARESE wrote
"Enter Madame"—or, to be quite accurate, helped write it—in no reverent mood. A fig for tradition, one imagines her saying:
let's have a play about Woman Triumphant, revealing more than the triumph, pliable creature he is, and laughing our old friend the eternal triangle out of countenance.

If this was her purpose she accomplished it effectively. The gay comedy which brought her back to her home town last evening in the dual role of playwright and star. A sprightly bit of feminist propaganda is this tale of troubled domesticity, with no honors at all for the man in the case.
Not once merely, but twice, is he wrapped with comic facility around the little fingers of those in whose eyes he would pose as lord and master. And it is a stimulating spectacle.

Here you have a hapless gentleman,
most engaging in the person of Henry Stephenson, an uncommonly fine actor, plunged into a whimsical predicament by his wife's return from Europe. She is Miss Varese, dark, flashing, and Italian, a notable of the operatic stage given to temperamental ructions and extravagant flights of fancy.

She has been long absent, and he thinks he is tired of basking, at long distance, in the shadow of her greatness. A blonde widow has been joining him at breakfast, and matters have been arranged. He is to have a divorce and marry the widow.

With what seems like sheer perva-sity the neglectful diva decides she will regain her errant affections. This she accomplishes by a variety of maneuvres, which carry the play through one act of admirably sustained high comedy and another of broad, doorslamming farce. It is all deft and reasonably convincing, and provides an evening of capital fun.

The climax arrives at a dinner given by the diva immediately after she has been divorced. Every one concerned

MISS GILDA VARESE
in "Enter Madame."
[Schwarz Photo.]

In the mess is there, including the blonde widow, and her defeat is staged amusingly before her very eyes. She is packed off into oblivion, and the husband remains in his ex-wife's apartment, to the utter scandalization of his youthful and eminently "proper" son.

To the telling of this tale Miss Varese brings all the exotic arts she has acquired in the playing of many Italian parts. There is, of course, a hint of Miss Dora Keane and "Romance" in the Varese role, but only a hint. Miss Varese is an individual, and her Madame Della Robbia, though flamboyantly drawn, seems a real person.

Mr. Stephenson is a tower of strength to any cast, and provides the necessary contrast to his vivid vis-a-vis with much sane, quiet humor. The other roles are in capable hands, with Miss Jane Meredith standing out effectively as the purring charmer and Gavin Muir playing the much-worried son with a comic drawl.

Certain extraneous circumstances made the first night eventful, Miss Varese being moved to tears by the audience's rapturous acclaim and prodigal gifts of flowers, and the management driven to distraction by the appearance of one George Mole, who was to have played a Japanese servant.
The police have been asked to find Mr.
Mole.

THRASHER WANTS MAYOR TO HEAR RAID EVIDENCE

"Let Him See How Bad City Is," He Asks.

"I hope Mayor Thompson, Chief of Police Fitzmorris, and State's Attorney Crowe are present in Judge Harry Olson's court when the trial of those arrested in the raid on the Entertainers club, at 35th street and Indiana avenue, is called," said Samuel P. Thrasher, superintendent of the Committee of Fifteen, last night. "They will then learn of the villainous and rottenness existing there."

"I am responsible for the warrants being issued. I had received so many complaints from parents whose sons and daughters were being demoralized
there, and from neighbors and citizens,
I thought it time to call a halt. The Law and Order and Juvenile Protective league and the Illinois Vigilance association cooperated with me in securing the evidence."

"In my complaint on which Judge Olson issued the warrant the obscenity and indecency existing was of such character that it was unfit to be described and spread on the records of the court. Judge Landis also issued a federal search warrant."

"I then asked Chief Fitzmorris for men with which to make the raid. He gladly consented and assigned Lieut.
William Shoemaker to lead the squad of twenty men. None knew where they were going and there was no tipoff."
About thirty were arrested, including "Jazz" Shore, proprietor. They will be tried on a charge of fostering and taking part in indecent dances, for which the punishment may be one year imprisonment. In addition, federal charges of violating the prohibition laws will be preferred by Prohibition Agent Mark Potter who took part in the raid and obtained a quantity of liquor.

shall hereafter be known as 'lanes'."

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

What will be the result of the disarmament conference?

Where Asked.

Michigan avenue at Tribune plant.

The Answers.

C. Carl Secrist, Baltimore, Md., business representative
"I believe it is going to result in a great saving if they put some business men in Washington to take care of it. If they don't it will only provide more money for the grafters
we have there now."

Mrs. C. Carl Secrist—I differ from my husband. He really believes the conference will accomplish something. But I don't think it will; in fact, I don't think they will get anywhere at all. I believe all the powers came here with fixed ideas and I don't think anything will change them.

W. A. Gradner, Atlantic City, eastern representative—No direct results will be obtained from this conference, at least I can't see how there can be any. My belief is that Japan will refuse absolutely to reduce her navy, or change her plans.

Miss Emilie Burton, "City Hall" Square hotel, vocalist—This conference will bring the world back to normal times again—times when we can eat three times a day and have some money with our meals if we want it. It will help all the people of the world.

Michael Burton, Michigan avenue tender—That conference will make history. The public in any country doesn't realize how much money it takes to keep up a big navy, and the statesmen do. It will be a world benefit if they divert the money
for a gigantic navy to useful purposes.

THREAT TO QUIT LABOR BODY MADE BY CARPENTERS

Demand Support in Fight on Landis Award.

Threats of a split in the Chicago Building Trades council by the withdrawal of the Carpenters' District council unless all the unions join in a fight on the Landis award were made yesterday by Harry Jensen, president of the carpenters, in a speech before the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Mr. Jensen also attacked the citizens' committee organized to enforce the Landis award, declaring the carpenters would battle the committee's efforts.
The speech was warmly applauded.

"The building industry is not afraid of the citizens' committee nor the contractors," declared Jensen. "The only ones we fear are our fellow workers."
It is the other trades that bother us. During the crisis the painters and the lathers are the only ones who stuck with us. The others want us to sign the so-called agreement of Judge Landis.
The carpenters will have to be down and out before they submit to the Landis award.

Although most of the other unions affiliated with the Building Trades council have accepted this award, I don't know of one that is living up to it.

It may be a week or it may be two weeks, but unless the allied trades with whom we are associated agree to assist us in our fight the carpenters will withdraw from the Building Trades council.

"The citizens' committee itself is not living up to the terms of the Landis award. Some of the members are managers and owners of large mercantile and industrial plants and have employed whom we come under the jurisdiction of the Building Trades council, but those employers are not being paid the Landis rate of pay. If they do not live up to the agreement how can they expect us to?"

"Indicted at Every Move."

"Every time officials of the carpenters' unions make a move they are indicted for conspiracy through the efforts of the manufacturers' association and the Dailey commission. Last week the carpenters spent $150,000 in court costs. How much it will cost this year I cannot say."

"At the meeting of the Building Trades council last Friday night I made a motion to have a committee of carpenters visit each trade union and confer on the question of working with nonunion mechanics. The motion was lost. It's not the rank and file of the organizations I find fault with; it is the officials of the unions."

Garment Strike Threatened.

Possibility of another garment workers' strike in Chicago was forecast in a report made by a delegate from the garment workers' union.

In a recent vote taken by the Chicago body 2,245 members voted for a strike and only forty-five cast their ballots against a walkout. The present agreement expires Dec. 1, when the employers plan to install the piece work system.

Benjamin Schlesinger, international president of the garment workers, will arrive here from New York Thursday to confer with the local executive committee.

PRINTERS REJECT
EMPLOYERS' PLAN FOR ARBITRATION

Members of Chicago Typographical union No. 16, meeting yesterday in Hod Carriers' hall, widened still further the breach between them and the Franklin association when they rejected arbitration plans advanced by the association.

They also voted that the association be requested to expel from its membership twenty composition houses unless they drop the injunction now pending to restrain officials of the association from entering into contract with Typographical union No. 16, on a basis adjusting the "struck work" clause.

HER PHANTOM LOVER

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Ronald Westhaven, owner of the English shipbuilding firm of Westhaven's, Doria, his wife, and his cousin, Andrew Mandell, are on an inspection trip with the Blue Mountains. Doria kills Mandell when he tries to make love to her. Westhaven, who resembles Mandell, assumes the dead man's name and tells authorities he killed Westhaven. He is sent to jail. Ten years later, pardoned, Westhaven, assuming the name of Ronald Barry, returns to England. He finds Doria a fashionable butterfly; Ted, their son, retaining the title of Lord Westhaven, and Philip Bowen, a designer, in love with Doria. "Barry" meets his wife and tells his story to Martin Drake, her attorney. They agree to keep the secret.

Crystal Marwood, Drake's niece, and Andrew Cronk, a workman

INSTALLMENT XLIX.

With a turn of the wrist almost any tragedy can become a comedy, but to at least one of the actors a comedy supplies its tragic part.

Ronald, as usual, found himself in the position of audience. It is doubtful if he comprehended in the slightest degree the state of his wife's mind. To him it would have seemed a small thing whether he poured a cup of tea for Doria or invited her to do it for herself. The thing that mattered to her was that Rita Charing performed the rite.

It was astonishing that she could have forgotten so soon the real object of her visit and the dreadful fear under-lying it. She had come to take soundings on the subject of Andrew Cronk, and she found herself submerged to the ears by a wave of petty jealousy. She—jealous!

Cold reason was against it. To begin with, she had never loved Ronald, even when she married him. So much she had confided to Martin Drake. Secondly, she was infinitely prettier, younger looking—if not actually younger in years—than Rita.

But there was something terrifying in a subtle way in Rita's solid, complacent blondness. She gave Ronald such slow glances. Doria was quick enough to pick up and interpret them. She let Rita know that she saw and understood the game. Ronald was only a man. He wouldn't understand. Indeed, he needed protection from the man-eater.

On this tack Doria sailed in neatly. It was she who took the jug of hot water brought by Mrs. Biggs. She poured out the bitter draught which had been doled out to her, and steeped a fresh potion for herself. She declined the rich but-tered scones with the smile of one who knows how bad they are for the complexion, and displayed her strength of mind by nibbling at a slice of plain bread and butter.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Charing did not profit to any great extent. Her possessive manner toward Ronald did not alter. The slow glances swept regularly over Doria's head. She invited Mr. Barry to dine with her at her hotel in Southbeach the following evening, and he accepted the invitation. She did not seem the least bit in a hurry to leave, either; and her manner suggested that she was waiting for Doria to go first.

Doria's greatest difficulty was to control her own temper. It was the first time in her life that such humiliation had been put upon her. She was not only angry but bewildered. Such a thing had never happened before, but it was happening now, and that marked an epoch. She had no power over Ronald; that is to say, no power as a woman over a man.

It seemed to her that she would go mad if he really dined tomorrow night with Rita Charing. She pictured them together at the little table in the window overlooking the sea, and afterwards having coffee on the balcony. It was nearly seven o'clock when Doria felt that the time had come to make a distinct move.

"Are you stopping on here for the rest of the evening?" she demanded sweetly. Rita glanced at the clock and exclaimed how late it was. They both rose, and Doria turned quickly to her husband. "I want to see you on business," she said in an audible aside. "Will it be convenient for you to drive back to West Court with me?"

"Certainly," Ronald replied, with the perfunctory courtesy of an employed man to his employer. He said he would take only about ten minutes to change if she could give him take along, and Doria replied indifferently that he might take as long as he chose. Still Rita lingered and presently the two women found themselves alone together. It seemed that Rita had waited purposely for this moment.

"Doria, I want to ask you something—" "Go ahead." "You remember what I told you that afternoon about me and Mr. Barry?"

"What was it? O, yes—that you were dotty about him or something." Doria puffed at her cigarette; her blue eyes were hard as flint, and there was a nasty little twist to the corners of her lips.

"Doria, let's play fair about this," Rita Charing implored. "Mr. Barry isn't anything to you. You wouldn't marry him even if he asked you, I suppose. Look how you treated poor Bowen and all the rest of them. Please don't be angry, dear. What I mean is, my life has been just one shipwreck after another, and now—well, I want you to keep your hands off Ronald Barry. He belongs to me." Her voice grew hoarse towards the end, and a frightened look came into her eyes.

Doria began to laugh. It was all so outrageously funny. "Really, I can't see myself quarreling with another woman over a man," she exclaimed between gasps. "how fascinating he may be! And I won't call Ronald Barry a fool of yourself, Rita. Take my advice and leave the man alone. You needn't tell me you're in love with him. You've been in love too often." EVANSTON GIVES 35% OF INCOME TO ITS LANDLORD

Bank Shows How the City Spends Its Cash.

Figures showing exactly how the average patron of the Evanston Trust and Savings bank spends his income were compiled yesterday by Arthur Bull, cashier. Several years ago Mr. Bull inaugurated a plan by which the housewife submits to the teller a check on the stub of which is entered the amount to be paid the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker.

One check written by the patron covers all these items and the bank makes payment to the merchants. From these statistics Mr. Bull compiled his averages.

Bank, Food, Clothes Get 75 Per Cent. They show that 75 per cent of the income this year was expended on rent, food, and clothes. Last year 70 per cent was the total.

From figures presented four years ago by Mrs. Rufus Dawes, wife of the banker, then president of the Woman's Club of Evanston, it is shown how the 1917 income went. A comparison of the family budgets in Evanston four years ago, one year ago, and this year follows:

HOW MONEY GOES IN 1921.

Savings Per cent.
Food 15
Rent 25
Clothing 25
Operating expenses, including education, recreation, donations, advancement, light, fuel, medicines, insurance, etc. 10

WHERE 1920 INCOME WENT.

Savings 10
Food 20
Rent 25
Clothing 15
Advancement, education, etc. 6
Operating expenses, including education, medicine, etc. 12
Insurance 8

HOW 1917 SALARY WAS SPENT.

Savings 20
Food 20
Rent 25
Clothing 10
Operating expenses 12
Advancement 18
Insurance 5

Mrs. Dawes' Figures. Mrs. Dawes was chairman of a department in the club which kept family budgets for the year 1917. Her figures are the result of their reports.

These statistics show that the housewife was able last year to save only half what she could bank in 1917, and that this year she has saved 5 per cent more of the total income of Friend Husband.

Rents, which last year were only about 25 per cent more than the charges four years ago, this year are more than double those of 1917, the figures indicate. More than one-third of the average income is expended on rent, according to the estimates.

Thirty Per Cent for Food.

Where last year 30 per cent of the income went for food, this year only 25 per cent is needed to set the family table in Evanston.

Expenditures for clothing are about the same this year as they were in 1920, or 15 per cent of the income. Five per cent less money was spent the year for charity, recreation, education, and other items classified under operating expenses and advancement.

Postoffices to Become "Ports of Missing Men"

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Under the terms of a bulletin issued to all postmasters today, Postmaster General Hays has ordered that the organized machinery of that branch of the government shall be placed at the disposal of persons who have lost track of missing relatives or friends. Any one who, in their distress, seeks knowledge of the missing man, woman, or children, may apply to the postmaster and receive all the assistance possible in tracing them.

FARM AND GARDEN

SOIL WILL ROLL TO SEA IF DITCHES ARE NOT STOPPED.

After the early snows that usually melt soon after they fall is the time that soil washes away easily, especially in the flat plowed fields where the dirt is loose. Few realize the enormous waste from soil erosion or the washing away of crops by water. Time and money are wasted in building up the soil by using limestone, raw rock phosphates and turning under stable or green manure where the soil is allowed to be carried from the farm into rivers and eventually to the sea.

Farmers know this quite well and yet they allow great ditches to form in their fields and carry away expensive plant foods that in turn cut down the productivity of their land when an end to stop processes. Ditches are easily stopped when they are small. Brush and straw are the two common materials good to use in building dams across small ditches, and there is no better way of getting rid of old straw or brush than to come from the pruning of orchards and the farm wood lot. The common practice is to throw the brush in loose but it saves time and is much more effective to tie it up in bunches. Pack it tightly in the ditch with the heavy end up stream, and stake it down.

Old straw worked into the brush increases the effectiveness of the dam. Rocks may be used to advantage in building dams across badly washed places. Use the rocks in the big ditches and the brush and straw in the small ones. The rocks allow the water to pass through freely while the sediment is deposited above the dam, filling the ditch within a short time. Concrete dams are sometimes used but the expense prevents their general adoption.

ECONOMY

Rice Leaders of the World Association

Qualifications for Membership

HONOR

A recognized reputation for fair and honorable business dealings.

QUALITY

STRENGTH

A responsible and substantial financial standing.

SERVICE

A recognized reputation for conducting business in prompt and efficient manner.

THE ancient Greeks, from whom we get our modern word "Economy", knew well its application. In proportion and design their architecture has never been surpassed; its massive quiet repose is unequalled. Theirs was a constructive Economy, founded upon sound workmanship, the reward of which was endurance.

Divide the original cost of the Parthenon over 2400 years and you have one of the finest examples of such Economy the world can show.

Economy, in terms of every day usage, means "spending wisely." Mere initial saving on purchase price does not necessarily mean economy; often it is but waste. To obtain utmost value and satisfaction in the purchases you make, you should know the character and reputation of the manufacturer of the merchandise.

Members of the Rice Leaders of the World Association are manufacturers having established reputations. Before a concern can be accepted into Membership to represent an industry, it must enjoy a reputation as described in the Association's Qualifications for Membership and portrayed in its emblem.

The Rice Leaders of the World Association is a modern example of the power and Economy of co-operation. Through its activities member manufacturers are able, at much less individual expense, to convey to a far greater number of people further knowledge of their standing, the soundness of their business methods, and the reliability of their products. The Association also effects a valuable economy for buyers. It makes it unnecessary for you to investigate member manufacturers and thereby conserves your time.

Look for the Emblem of the Rice Leaders of the World Association, which members are privileged to use. You will find it in their catalogs, literature and advertisements—on their stationery, salesmen's cards, and products. Without inference against concerns not in the Association, this Emblem will help you exercise true Economy in buying. You can purchase the products which it identifies without doubt or hesitation, knowing that quality, service and fair treatment are assured.
